Security Federal announces $250,000 expansion

Security Federal Savings and Loan will build a 5,000 square foot addition to its office on North Main Street, according to Jim Beaird, president and executive officer of the association. The space will be used to house the firm's corporate offices. The new addition is shown in this architect's drawing. The addition, which will cost about $250,000, will be built by Ryan Construction Co. Beaird said work is expected to begin almost immediately with work expected to take six to 10 months. The addition will be built on the north side of the association building. It will include several more offices, a secretarial pool, room for future offices, a lounge and board room.

Beaird said a manager will be hired to run the office on North Main Street and corporate officers will no longer handle the day-to-day chores of running the office. He said this will free them to handle long range planning and other corporate functions.

The association has branch offices on Center Street in Sikeston, and in Dexter, New Madrid, Malden, Poplar Bluff, Portageville and Hayti.

The new Dexter facility, under construction now, will be ready for occupancy by April, beaird said.

Thieves grap purses at hospital

Purses, motorcycles and electronic equipment have been reported stolen in Sikeston, it was announced today by the Public Safety Department.

The purses were stolen by two men from a utility room in wing 2F at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Public safety officers said the purses belonged to Betty Williams, 113 Alabama St., and Marian Ann Bowen of Lilbourn. The purses contained money, personal papers and cash.

Two men entered the wing and while one man grabbed his stomach and distracted the women, the other entered the utility room and took the purses. Both men fled down separate stairways to a car outside the emergency room where a third man waited.

The purse belonging to the Bowen woman was later found near the OFMCO building on Route H.

Two motorcycles were reported stolen from a storage shed at 531 S. Frisco St. sometime between Tuesday and Thursday.

A cycle belonging to Miles Eugene Curtis, Kingsway Motel, North Main St., was valued at $2,000.

Doyle Wayne Currey, 233 Ruth St., reported the theft of an eight-track tape player worth $90 and two speakers worth $25 from his home sometime Thursday afternoon.

To attract industry

Chamber discusses building

The possiblity of erecting a shell building to attract industry to Sikeston was discussed Thursday at a noon luncheon of the Sikeston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Bill Wellborn, executive secretary of the chamber, revealed that Sikeston just recently lost two industrial prospects because the city did not have a building into which they could move.

A shell building is one in which the foundation and walls and roof are built on specualtion. When a manufacturing firm agrees to move into the building, the interior is finished to its specificiations.

Allen Blanton told the chamber that there are 300 manufacturers seeking locations for new plants and 16,000 communities offering sites.

Those communities with shell buildings have the edge on those which do not, Blanton said.

Sikeston has been growing at a rate of one new industry every five years, and the city cannot continue at that slow rate, Blanton said.

He added that it takes $1,000 a year to education a person in Sikeston, and half of them have to leave town at the end of school because there are no jobs to keep them here.

Wellborn said that available buildings "are the hottest thing going," and any community that has one is "way out ahead of the competition."

A developer in Blytheville, Ark., has built and sold three shell buildings, adding 1,000 jobs to that city's labor force, Wellborn said.

A 50,000 square foot shell building in New Madrid will probably sell within the next few months, Wellborn said.

He pointed out that Anchor Toy Co. came to Sikeston because of an available building as did Triangle PWC and Ralph Edwards Sportswear.

Wellborn said there are two ways to finance construction of a shell building, by private investors or public subscription.

Private development is not too common, because the building must be low-priced to sell and there is little profit, Wellborn said.

Jackson recently held a public subscription drive for an industrial park and raised $240,000, he said.

A committee was appointed to look into the possibility of building a shell building in Sikeston. On the committee are David Friedman, Allen Blanton, Chuck Grant, Clem Beal, Charles Church, Fred Steward and Scott Matthews.

Brown Dirt liquor license suspended

The liquor license for the Brown Dirt Cowboy tavern, 209 E. Center St., was suspended for 14 days by the City Council following a public hearing Thursday afternoon.

The suspension will take effect following a hearing in February or March by the State Division of Liquor Control in connection with state law violations.

The hearing was the first ever held by the City Council on a liquor license violation.

The tavern owner, Lawrence Luber, offered no defense against the charges that he allowed underage drinking in the establishment on Dec. 18 and Oct. 22.

Twenty witnesses had been subpoened by Luber's attorney, but were dismissed before the hearing began.

Undercover agents Gary Lee Spurgeon and William John Torno told the council that On Dec. 18 they entered the tavern and saw eight "youthful looking persons" sitting around a table.

One of the eight went to the bar and bought a pitcher of beer from bartender Bobby Glen Hosey and a second youth bought beer from Paul Luber. The pitchers were used to fill all the glasses at the table.

The agents said they checked the eight young people and found that six of them were under age. Torno said they were at the tavern investigating complaints that minors were drinking at the tavern.

Public Safety Officer Sgt. Richard Couch told the council that on Oct. 22 he and Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton entered the

Martin charged with felonious assault

BLOOMFIELD -- Felix Martin of rural Bloomfield has been charged with felonious assault in connection with an attack on a sheriff's deputy, the Stoddard County Sheriff's Department said today.

Martin is being held in Stoddard County Jail in Bloomfield.

The charge arose from an incident Wednesday night at Martin's home, when Deputy Sheriff Larry Hampton became involved in a family disturbance.

Some how Hampton managed to get his finger between the firing pin and the hammer, preventing the gun from discharging.

Martin received minor injuries as Hampton defended himself.

Also reportely involved in the dispute were several children and Martin's 80 year-old mother.

Kidnap suspects bound over for trial

CHARLESTON -- Two East Prairie men, Ricky Jackson and Richard Oliphant, were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on kidnaping charges Thursday by Judge W. Clifton Banta Sr., following their preliminary hearings in Magistrate Court.

Jackson and Oliphant are accused of the Jan. 12 kidnaping of John Wayne Davis, 24, of St. Louis and formerly of East Prairie, and remain in custody under $20,000 bonds each. A third man, Dale Crump of East Prairie, is free on $20,000 bond and his preliminary hearing is scheduled for Feb. 10.

In related cases, Joyce Gore and Kevin Johnson of East Prairie, pleaded guilty to amended charges of attempting to bribe a witness, reduced from felony charges on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham. The two were given suspended one-year jail sentences and placed on two-year supervised probation on condition they pay court costs and obey the law. Miss Gore paid costs of $58.60 and a second count of attempting to bribe a witness was dismissed. Johonson's costs totaled $92.10.

The two pleaded guilty to threatening Randy Williams, a witness to the kidnaping.

Witnesses called during the lengthy preliminary hearing by Prosecuting Attorney Graham were Davis, Clarence Davis, Randy Williams and Mona Vaughn of East Prairie, Deputy Sheriff Dennis Turley and Edward Marshall of Matthews Route One.

According to Davis, he was in Randy Williams' car the night of Jan. 12 along with Oliphant, who was sitting in the front seat with Williams, and his brother, Clarence Davis. After driving through East Prairie several times and buying a six-pack of beer, Davis said Oliphant suggested they drive out east of town where some young people were having a party. This was about 9:15 p.m.

A short distance down a county road, south of Lewis' Eastside Mobil Station, Oliphant reportedly told Williams to stop the car so he could get out and "use the bathroom or stretch his legs."

Seconds later Davis said two men came up, one shoved Oliphant against the car, then opened the car door and told him to get our.

Continuing, Davis said one of the men wore sunglasses and a sock cap and carried a pistol. The other wore a ski mask over his face and held a shotgun.

Stating that he recognized Jackson by his voice, Davis said that although he did not know Crump personally he had seen him around town and recognized his face when Crump pulled off the ski mask before tape was placed over his eyes.

"We walked about 70 to 100 feet down the road to a car parked in a field road. I asked Ricky what was going on and he told me to shut up and I wouldn't get hurt. I grabbed the pistol and he told me to let go or he'd let me have it right there", Davis testified.

Arriving at the car, Davis said a gag was put in his mouth, taped placed over this and his eyes and his hands were tied behind his back with a nylon-like cord.

" I was put in the back seat of the car. We drove for about 15 or 20 minutes, then they stopped and put me in the trunk." While in the rear seat Davis said there was someone sitting on either side of him and that it was possible that there was someone sitting on the passenger side of the front seat also. If known, the identity of the other persons in the car was not revealed during the hearing and charges have not been filed against anyone other than Oliphant, Jackson and Crump

Managing to free his hands, he used a rod which holds down the spare tire to pry open the trunk lid. He said he jumped from the trunk and began to run across the field, lying down in the snow at one point when he heard the car coming back.

Concluding his direct testimony, Davis said he walked to the farm home of Edward Marshall from where he called his mother and later went to the city hall in East Prairie where he reported the kidnaping.

Introduced in evidence by the prosecution was the trunk lid from Mona Vaughn's car, a camera box and a jack stand. Scratches on the locking mechanism of the lid were pointed out and the other items were allegedly described by Davis to law enforcement officials as things he "felt" with his hands while locked in the trunk. A wool blanket, and a pillow, also found in the car, and pieces of tape taken from Davis' clothing were sent to the crime laboratory and have not been returned.

Testimony from Williams and Clarence Davis were basically the same. Both related that the two men came up to the car shortly after Oliphant told Williams to stop the car, with the one armed with the shotgun standing at the rear of the car with the barrel of the gun near the rear glass. The man with the pistol, identified as Jackson by both Williams and Davis, stood near the front of the car, ran up and opened the car door and told John Wayne Davis to get out. Neither could idenify the man with the shotgun, presumed to be Crump.

Williams and Davis also agreed that Oliphant got back into Williams' car and began to use the citizens band radio calling for help as they dorve off. While Williams testified it did not appear that Oliphant was involved in the kidnaping, Clarence Davis said on cross-examaination "he figured Oliphant had set us up".

Turley, the first officer to investigate, said he heard the emergency call on a citizens band radio while at the home of Virgil Moore in East Prairie, Requesting that the callers meet him at Lewis' station, Turley said a short time later he was told of the kidnaping by Williams, Davis and Oliphant, who accompanied him to the scene.

From the description given by the three and from tire tracks and an imprint of the gas tank in a snow drift, Turley said he was able to establish that the car could be that of Mona Vaughn.

Turley said he saw John Wayne Davis sometime arount 10:30 p.m. Jan. 12 at the city hall in East Prairie. At that time he said Davis had several scratches and some bruises on his face and indentations around his wrists. The officer said Davis was also able to describe some of the articles he had felt with his hands while locked in the trunk.

After receiving permission from Miss Vaughn, who told Turley she had loaned her car out, the officer said he searched the trunk and found a blanket, pillow, camera box and loose spare tire, the articles described by Davis.

Testimony from Miss Vaughn, who is employed by Crump's Restaurant in East Prairie, revealed that she had loaned her car to Marsha Crump, Sale Crump's sister, earlier in the night of Jan. 12 and around 8 p.m. to his wife, Judy Crump, to run some errands. She related that Judy Crump at one point called her on the phone and asked if Dale could use her car and she gave permission. Her car was parked at the rear of the restaurant at 10 p.m. when she got off work, she said, although she did not see who brought it back.

The final witness was Edward Marshall, who testified that John Wayne Davis came to his house, seven miles southewest of East Prairie about 10 p.m. Jan. 12 and stayed there until someone came to pick him up about 11 p.m.

Marshall described Davis as cold, nervous and shaking. He said he used the telephone to call his mother and that he overheard him tell her he had been kidnaped, however, Davis, according to Marshall, did not elaborate or tell him what had occurred, saying only that it was a "long story".

Jackson and Oliphant were arrested on the kidnaping charges about 1 p.m. Jan. 13 and Crump turned himself in at Farmington State Hospital two days later.

After its investigation into the U.S. Postal Service, the General Accounting Office (GAO), a watchdog agency for the Congress, has concluded that for the Postal Service to break even by 1984, it will have to raise first class mail rates to 34 cents an ounce.

The 1970 law which established the Postal Service required it to become self-sufficient by 1984. However it is apparent that there is no way it can achieve that objective without service cutbacks.

The GAO concludes that the Postal Service won't be able to operate without subsidy unless the public is willing to curtail mail deliveries to three days a week, accept the firing of half the personnel in post offices and cutback on other services.

A spokesman for the GAO says even if first class rates were to be raised to 34 cents an ounce by 1984, it would still be impossible for the Postal Service to become self-sufficient since higher rates would cause people to mail fewer letters.

BOND 'CLEANED OUT' OFFICE, TEASDALE AIDES COMPLAIN

By T. Wayne Mitchell
Jefferson City Correspondent

Jefferson City — Thousands of dollars worth of equipment and supplies removed from the Missouri governor's office in the closing days of Gov. Christopher Bond's administration has been returned to Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale.

In what the aides termed a "childish trick," the outgoing Republican governor declared as "surplus" last month a wide range of expensive furniture, cameras and radio and television equipment owned by the governor's office. The items were transferred to Phelps.

Cliff Faddis, an aide to the new Democracit governor, said the governor's office was left literally without pencils and paper by Bond and his staff when Teasdale was sworn in Jan. 10.

"We're mature human beings trying to run a government," Faddis said. "We naturally resent the former governor playing games; we just wanted the material returned that was purchased with governor's office funds."

Bond, who reportedly was staying at his parents' home in Mexico, Mo., while considering possible job offers, could not be reached for comment last night.

Phelps yesterday said he was aware that equipment was transferred to his office but was unaware that all of the governor's office expendable supplies also were removed by Bond.

He said the equipment was transferred because he has used much of it co-operatively with Bond and he was uncertain whether the cooperation would continue under a Democratic governor.

However in an effort to avoid a major confrontation between the two state officials, William Kimsey, acting commissioner of administration, yesterday assured Phelps that he could use audio equipment and other expensive machines returned to Teasdale's office.

It also was learned yesterday that Bond closed the St. Louis branch of the governor's office in the waning days of his term and attempted to transfer much of the office equipment to Phelps. However Kimsey acted to prevent the transfer soon after Teasdale became governor.

Equipment that was declared surplus by Bond and removed from Teasdale's office includes six tape recorders, a television, two slide projectors, two cameras and lenses, an automatic electric typewriter, an automatic signature signing machine and other equipment. Also declared surplus by Bond were a desk, chair, a credenza, storage cabinets and other furniture items from the St. Louis governor's office.

Faddis said the former governor had abused the state Surplus Property Law that permits items no longer needed by one agency to be declared surplus and transferred to other state agencies.

Before leaving for Washington yesterday to attend the inauguration of Jimmy Carter as President, Teasdale said the recovery of the equipment and supplies was "vital to the operation of the governor's office."

COTTONSEED HULLS MAKE GOOD ROUGHAGE

Cottonseed hulls make a good source of roughage for winter feeding of cattle. The hulls, a byproduct of cotton ginning, are readily eaten by cattle and provide about 45 per cent digestible energy in the diet, according to U.S. Departent of Agriculture research.

In experiments at the Beltsville (Md.) Agricultural Research Center, growing steers were fed diets containing various combinations of 100 per cent crude protein equivalent supplements. Their supplements contained biuret or urea as the nonprotein nitrogen (NPN) sources.

In two diets, part of the nitrogen in the NPN was replaced with natural proteins in the form of either soybean meal or fishmeal. Steers on all diets were fed cottonseed hulls, minerals, and vitamins.

The trials were conducted by USDA animal scientists Robert R. Oltjen, David A. Dinius, and H. Keith Goering.

When steers were fed only biuret or urea as the NPN source, they gained 1.2 pounds per day. However, when a small part of the nitrogen in the NPN was replaced with fishmeal or soybean meal, steers gained about 1.5 pounds per day.

Adding soybean meal or fishmeal encouraged cattle to eat the cottonseed hulls. Cattle ate about 3.1 per cent of their body weight in cottonseed hulls per day. Adding monensin, a rumen stimulant, to the diet decreased the intake of cottonseed hulls and reduced gains.

These experiments were repeated, substituting chopped cornstalks or barley straw for cottonseed hulls in two diets. Steers fed cornstalks lost weight and consumed only about half as much as did steers fed cottonseed hulls.

Steers fed barley straw fared slightly better than cattle fed cornstalks—gaining about 0.4 pound per day—but ate only two-thirds as much as cattle on cottonseed hulls.

Cattle fed cottonseed hulls gained at or above the 1 to 1.5 pounds per day often recommended for overwintering of steers.

"These results indicate," said Oltjen, "that it is feasible for cattlement to winter their steers on diets containing cottonseed hulls as the sole rougage source, supplemented only with NPN, vitamins, and minerals."

P.S. TO THE NEWS

CIVIL DEFENSE
By PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY
Copley News Service

A 374-page book that sells 500,000 copies is a best-seller in any language. A book that sold that many copies inside Russia has just been published in the United States. I wonder if it will sell even 1,000 here. The book has no sex appeal. The people pictured in the book are covered with many layers of clothing.

The book is entitled, simply, "Civil Defense." For the Russians, it is a how-to-do-it manual on how to survive a nuclear war. For Americans, it is a manual to dispel the four myths that our government and people have swallowed during the last decade.

1. "Nuclear war is unthinkable." While Americans have engaged in the mass delusion that they could cram the nuclear genie back into the bottle by NOT thinking about it, the Soviets have been doing a great deal of imaginative thinking about it. They think about how to fight a nuclear war, how to win it and how to survive it.

2. "Detente and disarmament are the keys to peace." The Soviets don't buy that American myth at all. The Soviets believe and proclaim that nuclear superiority of one nation is the key to peace -- on their terms, that is.

The top Russian military strategist and marshal of the Soviet Union, A. Grechko, stated shortly before he died: "The greater the combat ability of the armed forces of our country, the more powerfully they are equipped and the better the personnel are trained, the more peace there will be on earth."

3. "Nuclear war will be deterred by mutual assured destruction." The theory of this myth is that each country will be deterred from striking the other by the knowledge that the other will strike back. The civilian population of each side is, thus, hostage to the other.

The trouble is the Soviets haven't the slightest intention of cooperating in this mutuality, and their book on civil defense proves it. The Soviets believe that one side can carry out a preemptive first strike so massive that it will preclude the other from striking back at all.

4. "Nuclear war would be so destructive that, once one side pushes the button, it will be the end of the human race." This was the message of such popular books and movies as "On the Beach" and "Dr. Strangelove."

The Soviets reject this theory in toto. Their book on civil defense shows how they plan to save lives in the event of nuclear war.

Dr. Leon Goure of the Center for International Studies at the University of Miami has said that "the United States might lose as many as 100 million people in the event of a Soviet attack ... the Soviet Union, on the other hand, might lose less than it did in World War II."

Gen. Daniel James Jr., commander in chief of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), recently explained why the United States stands to lose so many: "We have NO (antiballistic missile) defense against ballistic missiles."

The best-selling Soviet book on civil defense explains why substantially all the Russian population will survive. Their civil defense plans are detailed, comprehensive and expensive. They include urban evacuation, shelter construction, the training of civil defense units and of the general population, and the protection of industry, services and agriculture.

Civil defense in the United States is best described in one forceful four-letter word: a joke.

The underlying theory of the Soviet civil defense program is that, as Grechko emphasized, "the winning of victory in a war depends in the final analysis on the standard" of the country's preparation for defense against a nuclear attack, and that it "must have the same organized and planned character as the training of the army and navy."

If the Soviet manual on civil defense could become a best-seller in the United States, we might have a chance to replace the false myth of mutual assured destruction with the safety of mutual assured survival.

New Labor Warning
To White House

WASHINGTON — Rarely has the powerful chief of union chiefs, George Meany, unloosed so much political panache as he has in the past fortnight. Even at 82 he's opened a multi-front counterattack on intellectual, academic and political forces now attempting to invade his "movement" and crack the influence, internally and internationally, of America's huge labor federation.

Since Monday, Jan. 10, the crusty AFL-CIO leader has whipped up a blizzard matching any blast of this week's ice age. That day Meany surprised his colleagues by attacking "Oilcan Eddie" Sadlowski, the new boy on the labor bloc who has yet to win a major union office. Thus Meany tangled with someone he would usually not even grunt at in passing.

But why did Meany, who has warred only with giants, yank Sadlowski onto a level with himself when this United Steelworkers union Chicago-Gary area director is still just a newsperson's person across much of the land? Albeit, Sadlowski is now an even-chance candidate for the big union's presidency in the Feb. 8 balloting. Those close to Meany interpret this move as the usual Meany stance-- like a buffalo, old Gene McCarthy once said. Meany, leader of the AFL-CIO's 14.5 million members, "digs in his feet, lowers his head" and crashes on through.

The 38-year-old Sadlowski actually is the symbol of all those in ultra-liberal, academic and political circles who have tried for almost 40 years to smash Meany and block the AFL's forward-crunching movement.

Contributing heavily to Sadlowski, for example, is "Ping" Ferry of New York, who once helped direct the late Sidney Hillman's CIO-inspired "Citizens' Political Action Committee," first of its kind, way back in 1943-44. Hillman and Meany had a cobra-flute relationship. Campaigning actively on the typewriter today for Sadlowski are such Meany-stinging critics of the AFL-CIO as Ralph Nader and Harvard Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, who believes that the day of big labor is as dead as the giant Mesozoic dinosaur.

And that ever-present spirit of persistent aggressive attacks on labor's leadership, Walter Reuther's brother Victor, is to Meany what the red flag is to the AFL-CIO chief politically. Vic Reuther has been unsuccessfully attempting to destroy Meany for decades. Now add Sadlowski's attorney, Joe Rauh, and others in the steel union rebels' print-out of financial contributors and you aren't very far from the new political crowd in Washington.

Thus, on Jan. 10, Meany in absentia because of the flu, directed two significant closed-door conferences. In the morning his special legislative high command subcommittee met -- and sharply criticized President Carter's economic program.

That was the same morning of the attack on Ed Sadlowski -- Meany's symbolic declaration of war on the "limousine liberals," the intellectuals, the academicians, all now returned to what they believed is power under Jimmy Carter.

Then meaningfully, that afternoon, Meany disclosed he had convinced the prodigal, Harvard's John Dunlop, to return to Washington even though John had been publicly rejected by the President. Prof. Dunlop returned indeed. He chaired a five-hour conference of powerful labor and industrial leaders at the Hay Adams Hotel.

During this unreported gathering in a private salon, such influential management leaders as Reg Jones, GE's chairman, and former Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz (now with Bechtel) sat on one side of the table. On the other side were AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, "chairman" of the labor group, the Maritime Trades Department's Paul Hall, the men's garment and textile union chief Murray Finley and I. W. Abel, retiring steelworkers' union president.

Together, these men of labor and commerce are sufficiently influential on the Hill to set considerable congressional policy once the committee members agree by consensus. And they will meet quarterly -- if not sooner. Their voice will be heard in the White House. And much of what is passed on to President Carter via Fritz Mondale will be the words of John Dunlop and George Meany. And where Jimmy Carter will need the most help is on the Hill.

And that Monday, Jan. 10, there was a consensus. Neither side wanted to go public. That's not the unofficial labor-management committee's style. They did get word back to the new administration. The message was they agreed more with labor's demand for heavier spending and a continuous tax deduction than with Jimmy Carter's economists.

This gossamer union-industry "soft-speak" group, self-financing, with no powers except for what its prestigious members can engender in their own bailiwicks, want more federal billions poured out so there could be heavier capital construction and more jobs.

Further, on Thursday of that week, Meany ran a two-day session of a newly-coordinated national organizing committee. He had shaken the flu bug. He wound up his speech by telling the AFL-CIO officials: "I've got to go back to the office and see what Jerry Ford is doing and then check on Jimmy Carter." Everybody laughed. But that didn't seep the steam from the discussions for a far-flung new unionizing campaign.

And at a cocktail and steak luncheon at the Capital Hilton, Meany introduced Secretary of Labor-designate, Ray Marshall. It was all very friendly. Most of the 60 AFL-CIO leaders and staffers knew the lone guest of honor -- somewhat. Then Meany summed it all up: "Anytime we don't agree (with the Carter administration -- VR) you'll hear from us."

That message was loud and clear.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U.S. Oil Problems Still Unsolved

and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- Three years after the Arab oil embargo, Washington still hasn't developed a plan to protect the nation from another oil squeeze.

This incredible failure is acknowledged in a secret national security memo, known as Policy Study No. 38, which President Jimmy Carter found waiting for him when he settled into the Oval Office.

The recent cold spell, meanwhile, has put a squeeze on America's dwindling oil and gas reserves, even though there is no embargo.

A year ago, President Gerald Ford ordered his national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, to set up a task force to find ways "to ensure a reliable supply of required energy imports at reasonable prices over the next five years." The task force was instructed to give special consideration to "influencing pricing and production decisions in exporting nations."

Their report was supposed to be completed by March 15, 1976. But the policymakers kept sending the drafts back for revision. A tentative report was submitted last July. But, according to a secret briefing paper prepared for President Carter, this was also returned "to answer major questions that had been omitted, and a new working outline was developed."

The report still hasn't been "finalized." The briefing paper blames the State Dept. for keeping "overly tight control of the study." The striped-pants set allegedly tried to manipulate the study "to rubber stamp (their) existing international energy initiatives."

This charge has irritated State Dept. officials, who hold the Treasury experts responsible for the delay. "They came up with questions, but they never had any answers," grumped one official.

The State Dept. wants to "lessen the impact" of future oil price increases, according to the briefing paper, by cutting back imports.

But the Treasury Dept. contends that "further arbitrary reductions in the amount of oil we import do not appear economically justified at present." This would merely result in a corresponding cutback in trade and an economic slowdown at home, the Treasury experts warn.

They, therefore, fear "such a policy could inflict higher costs upon the American consumer than the anticipated (oil) prices increases." Treasury officials would rather stockpile oil, as a hedge against an embargo, than reduce imports.

But in the backrooms, the experts are quarreling over who should pay for the strategic petroleum reserves. "If oil for storage is procured domestically," states another briefing paper, "it will have to be replaced with additional imports." Of course, this would raise prices, and the consumers would get stuck with the cost of building up the stockpile.

But if the government purchased oil for the stockpile directly from foreign sources at world market prices, the taxpayers would wind up paying the bill. Or the government could compel the refiners and importers to establish an industrial reserve. Then the oil companies would have to put up the money, although they likely would collect it back from their customers by raising prices.

The Treasury experts are also toying with the idea of buying "directly from foreign governments," according to the document. If this principle should be applied to all overseas oil purchases, it could save millions by eliminating the oil middlemen.

Rep. Phil Burton, D.-Calif., for example, is one of the most amiable men in Congress when his tooth isn't hurting. But the other morning, he set out for the dentist to get a painful chipped tooth repaired. The bitter cold weather didn't improve his disposition.

At a red light, Burton impatiently ordered his driver to make an illegal right turn. The infraction was witnessed by a policeman, who motioned the car to the curb. He approached the congressional vehicle, his face flushed with righteous indignation.

But he was unaware, poor fellow, that he was approaching a grizzly bear of a congressman with a sore tooth. Burton threw open the door, leaned out and began to berate the befuddled cop. "I want your badge number!" bellowed Burton.

The policeman was too startled to press charges, and the congressman completed the journey to the dentist. "It was just one of those crazy things," he told us afterward. Now that his tooth is feeling better, he's sorry about the incident.

Carter Capsules: Now that Jimmy Carter is installed in the White House, his campaign aides have loosened up on some of the campaign secrets. Here are a few stories they are now telling:

— Carter's irrepressible mother, "Miss Lillian," was so painfully frank that campaign aides quietly limited her appearances. They feared she would speak too honestly about some of the pro-segregationist views of the president's father. In New York, for example, her escorts went out of their way to keep her from the press.

— The campaigning Carter family became scattered so far and wide that they used the peripatetic advance men to pass messages to each other. Little Amy Carter, for example, got birthday greetings from her brother Chip, courtesy of an advance man who passed the message on to "Miss Lillian."

— One group that came out with high marks with the Carters was the Charlie Daniels Band. The Carters were so impressed with them that they may want the band to play a concert on the White House lawn.

Todays News In Brief

Appointment is criticized

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Republican State Committee Chairman Lowell McCuskey criticized Thursday the appointment of Carolyn Ashford as director of the Department of Natural Resources.

Mrs. Ashford was appointed to the $30,000 a year post by Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale earlier this week. Teasdale said he thought Mrs. Ashford had the necessary qualifications to hold the job which includes managing a 600-employe department.

Grand jury indicts policeman

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A federal grand jury indicted a Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., military policeman Thursday on charges of murder, kidnaping, assault and rape in connection with the slaying of three teenagers on the military base.

PSC against Teasdale

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Gov. Joseph Teasdale launched his role as a consumer advocate Thursday, saying his utility legislative package is in jeopardy because of a powerful Public Service Commission staff and lobbyists.

Pardon may not help get jobs

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A St. Louis County state senator has offered a proposal permitting Missouri employes to legally refuse jobs to Vietnam War resisters who have received a presidential pardon.

But after introducing the bill on Thursday, Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis, admitted that it was probably unconstitutional and had no chance of passage.

Sprague reacts to PSC plan

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Hugh Sprague, Public Service Commission chairman, said Thursday that a plan suggested by Gov. Joseph Teasdale to transfer the staff of the PSC to the Public Counsel would set up a utility czar in Missouri.

Teasdale advanced the idea before he testified at a pubic PSC hearing on a $3.9 million emergency rate increase request for the St. Joseph Power & Light Co.

Sprague predicted that many PSC staff members would quit rather than joint the staff of the Public Counsel, thus leaving the office without the competent consumer- oriented professional staff Teasdale hoped to achieve.

Suit filed to stop air base move

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jackson County counselor said Thursday he may file a suit in federal court to stop the Air Force from moving its personnel from Richards- Gebaur Air Force Base to Illinois.

Gas is cut off in industries

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — The St. Joseph Light and Power Co. notified officials at Northwest Missouri State University, St. Francis Hospital and several Maryville industries that their natural gas has been cut off.

Officials said Thursday the institutions have been told not to expect any gas in February. Spokesmen said it was forced to cut off the supplies because their own supply had been curtailed by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co.

The university, the hospital and the industries are all equipped to use alternate but more costly fuels.

State auditor is named

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Thomas M. Keyes of Kansas City was named state auditor Thursday by Gov. Joseph Teasdale, who called the certified public accountant "a 62-year-old mature, proven professional who's a Democrat."

'Roots'-most watched program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Roots" is well on its way to becoming the most watched program in television history — and the most talked about.

Word of mouth has increased its audience every night since its premiere Sunday, when ABC estimated 75 million people tuned in. By its conclusion this Sunday, ABC expects it will pass "Gone With the Wind," the highest- rated TV show to date.

Fuel crisis brings emergency

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio, New York and New Jersey were under energy emergencies today as officials sought to conserve dwindling natural gas supplies. The fuel crisis in the Northeast threatened to add more than 250,000 new layoffs to the ranks of the estimated 400,000 already "energy unemployed." Meanwhile, the governors of Florida, Pennsylvania and Tennessee asked President Carter to declare their states disaster areas. And an Arctic cold front settling over the Midwest and East was expected to drop temperatures to below zero and possibly cause some cuts in natural gas supplies for residential users.

Carter may veto economy plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress tries to add too much to President Carter's $31.2 billion economic stimulation package, the President's advisers might recommend that he veto the package, an administration economist warns. The administration's three top economic officials, questioned by the House Budget Committee on Thursday, hedged on how firm the administration is on holding the program to $15.5 billion this year and $15.7 billion next year.

Quick action on energy policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite reservations by some key lawmakers, President Carter is getting fast congressional action on his emergency energy proposals. Some lawmakers want assurances that the legislation won't delay action on long-range plans to end price controls on natural gas. They contend decontrol is needed to stimulate industry efforts to look for new supplies. The House Commerce Committee scheduled a hearing today on Carter's emergency energy proposal and the Senate, which waived committee hearings, slated floor debate on the plan. The package could be ready for passage in both houses early next week.

Concern for jobless veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, who pardoned Vietnam draft evaders as his first act in office, now wants to give a break to the thousands of jobless Vietnam-era veterans. Carter's new labor secretary, F. Ray Marshall, announced a $1.3 billion program Thursday to find jobs for 200,-000 of the nation's 558,000 unemployed Vietnam-era veterans. The government hopes to create 145,000 public service jobs for veterans, and to persuade business and industry to hire 50,000 to 60,000 more.

'Chico' attempts suicide

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Freddie Prinze, the 22-year-old star of the hit television series "Chico and the Man," was in critical condition today with a bullet wound in the head following an apparent suicide attempt, police said.

Lt. Dan Cook said Prinze had been despondent Thursday night and that several friends and his psychiatrist were in his apartment trying to cheer him up when the shot was fired.

"All of a sudden, he reached down into the sofa, pulled out an automatic pistol, and shot himself in the head," Cook said.

Cook said a note was found but he would not reveal the contents.

The shooting occurred about 3:30 a.m. in Prinze' suite at the plush Beverly Comstock Hotel in West Los Angeles. Prinze had been staying there since he and his wife, Katherine, filed for divorce last month. They were married in Las Vegas in October 1975.

James Komack, creator and executive producer of "Chico and the Man," said he had been with Prinze early Thursday evening in Komack's home. He said Prinze gave no hint of personal problems and said the actor didn't "leave here suicidal."

Paramedics who took the actor to the hospital said his condition was so unstable it was a half-hour before 'hey were able to move him.

Prinze, a Puerto Rican who traded heavily on his ethnic background in his routines, grew up in New York City. His break came three years ago when he appeared on the "Tonight Show" and was spotted by Komack.

In the half-hour NBC situation comedy, Prinze played the Mexican-American employe of a garage in an East Los Angeles barrio, or Mexican neighborhood, and traded jokes with his crusty, white boss, played by Jack Albertson.

When the show first began, some Mexican-Americans protested that it portrayed them in a bad light.

But Prinze disagreed, arguing that, "the Chicanos are a warm people. They're dynamite friends. I don't think it's the majority making the fuss. It's a few radicals. I was a radical when I was 16. Then I realized it's a one-way street."

Man is charged for attempted burglary

A 20-year-old Sikeston man was taken into custody about 1:20 a.m. today by public safety officers after he was discovered allegedly trying to break into John's M&H 863 W. Malone Ave.

Russell Montjoy, 1108 Maude St., has been charged with second degree attempted burglary, according to Detective Lt. Jack Patterson.

Montjoy was surprised by officer Bill Smith, who was making a routine check of the building. He was allegedly prying on the back door when Smith found him.

Montjoy fled on foot, but was found hiding in an incenerator behind Rudy's Furniture Store, 115 S. West St., by officer John Evans.

Dexter doctor to go into ministry

DEXTER — One of Dexter's highly regarded physicians will be leaving Feb. 1 to begin a new life in West Monroe, La., a city of around 100,000 persons.

Dr. John P. Morgan, who was in family practice and obstetrics for five years in Dexter, will give up that practice and devote his full time to ministery and education in the Church of Christ.

"In my practice of medicine, I didn't have the time to devote to Christ that I wanted to. And I had a tendency, I'm afraid, to be too materialistic.

"It wasn't an easy choice to change my life this way, but I've felt better since I decided to do this and I've been happier than I have been for several years."

In his new position with the White Ferry Road Church of Christ in West Monroe, Morgan will be involved in three areas. He will assist in developing and setting up a curriculum for teaching counseling to preaching students enrolled at the White Ferry Road School for Biblical Studies.

He also will assist the congregation there in establishing a counseling center at the church to serve the congregation and the community of West Monroe. In addition, he will accept engagements to present anti. abortion programs.

Morgan has presented a number of such programs in this area. He has an engagement Feb. 28 in Tyler, Tex., to present an anti abortion program. "I guess I have probably four to six invitations for the rest of the year in several different states--Illinois, Texas.

"I also am going to be working on a masters degree in religion at the American Bible College in West Monroe, and I'll have a chance to preach as much as I can."

Although he will be giving up his practice, he feels he certainly will have numerous chances to use his medical training in his new vocation. He went on to say that in his practice here he frequently met people who were suffering from problems that were more "spiritual" than "medical," in nature.

You have had some "successes" with Christian counseling that have led you to believe you can do some real good in this area?

"Well, yes, I really have," Dr. Morgan responded quietly.

"The more I've studied the Bible over the past several years, the deeper I've gotten into it, I've become more firmly committed to the idea that Jesus Christ is Lord--that he is not only my Savior, but that he is my Lord. And I want to spend all of my time working for Him."

"I don't mean to leave the impression that you have to leave whatever profession that you're in, but if you believe that the Bible is the inspired work of God, that being a Christian involves tocal commitment of your life to Christ, then you do have to put Jesus first in your life, whatever that means to you.

"It got to the point this wasn't something I felt like I had to do. It was something I wanted to do."

Morgan said that as a premed student at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and later as a medical student at the Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine, he had planned on spending his best working years in medicine and "retiring as a physician at a good old age, with financial security and all of that."

"Well, those things are not important to me any more. At one time they were."

"I'll get a salary (in his new work) but it won't be near what I made as a physician. It won't be the kind of salary where you can have a large retirement fund, extensive holdings, all of that."

Morgan will be salaried by White Ferry Road Church of Christ, and the Christian counseling he does will be done without charge.

Morgan said the School of Biblical Studies which trains preachers does not currently have an in-training counseling program for young preachers. Morgan will be responsible for working with the staff in developing a curriculum to train those students to do Christian counseling.

"This is an area that is exciting and I'm anxious to get started on. There are a number of books, particularly in the area of reality therapy which will be used as source books, but it's going to be in the main a Bible-oriented program.

Morgan believes deeply in the Bible as the inspired word of God, "perfectly able to teach us the things necessary for a happy, productive life."

In addition, Morgan proved to himself from his study over the past several years that abortion is "murder." When Morgan speaks out on abortion, he uses well-documented slide materials prepared by a Cincinnati couple active in Pro-Life movement—Dr. and Mrs. James Wilke.

Morgan, himself, an active opponent of abortion said, "I've delivered 875 babies. I guess that's the part of medicine I'll miss the most. I loved that. I consider one of the real privileges of practicing medicine was to be able to deliver those babies."

THE BIBLE

No. 276. The Writing on the Wall

King Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his lords, and commanded that his guests drink from the golden and silver vessels taken from the temple of Jerusalem. As they drank, they praised false gods. "In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace; and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote." (Daniel 5:5)

The terrified king called for someone to interpret the meaning of this mysterious handwriting. However, in all the kingdom, only Daniel was able to inform the king of its meaning.

"This is the interpretation of the thing: Mene; God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it. Tekel; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting. Peres; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians. . . . In that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain." (Daniel 5:26-30)

"A Woman Caught in Adultery"

New liquor rule pleases teetotalers

NEW YORK (AP) — The new social fare at the White House rules out hard liquor and that pleases anti-whisky forces, including a lot of Jimmy Carter's fellow Southern Baptists. But some of them frown at his occasionally sipping a cocktail.

There's no "foot-stomping campaign" about it, but there is some questioning, generally muted, says Theo Sommerkamp of Columbus, Ohio, editor of the Ohio Baptist Messenger.

At the same time, the newly eununciated policy of only wine and no hard drinks at White House dinners, receptions and other social functions during the Carter tenure reassured many Southern Baptists and other evangelicals.

The country's best-known Southern Baptist, evangelist Billy Graham, says he's glad to note Carter's decision that "no hard drinks will be served at the White House during his administration."

While favoring that, Graham disputed a recent news report saying he feels it's all right for Carter to drink an occasional highball. The story made erroneous deductions, a spokesman for Graham said.

Graham added in a statement that "because of the devastating problem that alcohol has become in America, it is better for Christians to be teetotalers except for medicinal purposes."

Miniskirt revival?

NEW YORK (AP) — The miniskirt. You remember, that merest suggestion of a coverup, that excuse for a dress that glorified ankle, calf, knee, thigh — and frequently a bit more.

It was the stuff of which bad jokes were made. It made an industry of pantyhose and an historical marker of the office drinking fountain.

Well, after seven years of banishment by the fashion arbiters, the miniskirt is making a comback. Not too fast. Not too short. Not for everyday. Not for everybody.

But a comeback. Of course, here and there — what with holdouts like Mary Hartman around — the mini, like the beehive hairdo, never went out of style.

Some Paris designers, like Pierre Cardin and Kenzo, are showing minis strictly for playwear, at the beach, on the cruiseship or at the resort. And there are some shorter cocktail dresses.

It remains to be seen whether women will approve. There surely won't be a mini revolution and, fashion experts say, few women would shuck their wardrobe of longer, comfortable skirts for frivolous frocks.

Afterall, some suspect the mini had a greater and more zealous following among men than among women who found it a chilly concession to vanity.

THE 200,000th DEGREE

"It took us from our first graduating class in 1861 to 1965 to award our first 100,000 degrees," said John W. Oswald, university president.

Vatican declaration casts gloom on women's ordination

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church will not ordain women as priests no matter what other churches do, the Vatican said today, because Jesus Christ was a man and his representatives on earth must bear a "natural resemblance."

A 6,000-word declaration issued by the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith on the orders of Pope Paul VI said the church based its decision on the attitude of Christ, who chose only males for his apostles, and that of the disciples, who chose only men as priests.

Informed sources said earlier this week that the document could open the way for women to become deacons as they were in the early days of Christianity. But an official commentary released with the declaration said the Congregation had postponed a decision on women deacons.

Priesthood should not be discussed as a matter of social advancement or equality between sexes, the document said, adding: "It should not be forgotten that priesthood is not part of the rights of a person but depends on the ... mystery of Christ and the Church."

Heritage House curtails activities

There will be no newsletter sent from Heritage House in February or until such a time when we can show a continued schedule of our regular activities.

The February menus may be picked up at the Center for those who need them as the meals are being served daily.

Activities must be curtailed due to the fuel shortage so that no afternoon or evening meeting will be held. On Tuesdays and Fridays the card players may use a section of the dinning room from 8 a.m. to noon as that is the only heated area.

Starting Tuesday, Ed. Todd will be available each Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon to offer his services as tax consultant for those 65 years of age or older who wish to file for their Missouri income tax refund.

Reservations for the Ice Show in St. Louis March 26 are still available. The young Olympic star, Dorothy Hamill is to be featured. Your deposit should accompany your name when reservations are made.

An attempt will be made, through the news media, to keep you informed of the Heritage House Happenings. You may call Heritage House 471-8059 from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. for additional information until the fuel shortage is over and we can resume our regular schedule.

Ann Landers

Husband's behavior embarasses her

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married 18 years and there's one thing about George that bugs me.

We attend many conventions because of his business. It seems whenever he is introduced to a good-looking woman, he can't just say, "Pleased to meet you." He has to put his arm around her shoulder and rub her back or give her a hug.

I feel all eyes are on me to see how I'm taking it. Of course I'm embarrassed but I try not to show it. I've told George how I feel about his tasteless behavior but he insists he's just being friendly -- that the women really like it and it does no harm.

I say he should cool it before some gal's husband punches him out. Am I wrong?- Huggy Bear's Wife

Dear Wife: No, but you'll never convince George, so stop trying. One of these days he's going to massage the wrong lady and SHE'LL punch him out. Then maybe he'll cool it.

Dear Ann Landers: I became depressed when I read that letter in your column from the mother who said, "My son-in-law is a bum and my daughter would be a lot better off without him."

Nine out of ten times the daughter knows her husband isn't what she thought he was when she married him, but she just doesn't see divorce as the answer.

I still love my husband even though he can't seem to get it all together. I'd rather work (this is what bugs my mother) and let my guy try to make a go of something he enjoys doing rather than have him be miserable in a higher-paying job just so it will look good to outsiders.

Please let me use your column to say to my mother, "I love you, Mom, in spite of your faults. I hope you will let me love him in spite of HIS faults – and stay out of our marriage."

Thank you, Ann, for giving me the opportunity to speak my mind. – Doing It My Way

Dear D.I.M.W.: I hope your mother (and other mothers who identify) will get your poignant message. But do try to put yourself in her place. Most daughters are unable to appreciate their mothers until they have daughters of their own. Then suddenly so many things become clear.

Dear Ann: I was invited to a dinner party last evening. I always leave a phone number with my children so they can reach me in case of an emergency.

Between the soup and the salad I received a call (big emergency – the kids were fighting over which channel to watch on the color TV). Suddenly I didn't know what to do with my dinner napkin. It was soiled and I didn't want to leave it on the table -- so I took it with me. I had a feeling this wasn't right.

What SHOULD a person do with a soiled dinner napkin if he or she must leave the table? Also, is it proper to fold the napkin when the meal is over? Some did, others didn't.

I realize yours isn't an etiquette column, but I figured you'd know the answer. -- Okie In Oakland

Bluff blasts Bulldogs, Jays trip Tigers

By DALE FORBIS
Daily Standard Sportswriter

It may have been 49 months and 13 meetings since their last victory over the Sikeston Bulldogs, but coach Jim King's Poplar Bluff Mule's looked Thursday night like they can now do it anytime they want as they waltzed to an 82-56 demi-final round decision over the Dogs. The easy win landed the Mules a berth in the finals tonight against the Charleston Bluejays at 8 p.m.

It was not a good night for Bulldogs --- fans, players or coaches. The fired up Mules out-hustled, out-shot, out-rebounded and outplayed Sikeston enroute to their 12th win in 15 starts. Larry Jackson's layup for the first score of the game gave the Dogs their only lead. The rest of the game belonged to the determined Mules and their large supporting crowd.

OUTCLASSED EARLY

Many of the crowd came to see 6-9 transfer student Lex Drum in his second outing for the high-flying Mules, but most came smelling blood ... Bulldog blood, and they got what they came for. The Mules exploited the Bulldog defense for easy inside buckets and forced turnovers by Sikeston. Only numerous turnovers by the overeager Mules themselves kept the score close.

Drum was brilliant in the first half, nailing seven of eight shots, scoring 15 points and holding Paul Gilbow scoreless in the Poplar Bluff man-to-man defense. Gilbow, who had had his finest varsity game in his career on Tuesday, had his worst against the Mules. Although the 6-6 senior was Sikeston's leading rebounder, he managed only one point before fouling out four minutes from the game's end.

HINTON FLOWERS

Drum's presence inside freed 6-5 senior Dale Hinton to roam the court, rather than his previous responsibility of hanging close to the goal. Hinton ran up 15 points in the first half, finished with 22 and led all rebounders by grabbing 14. Poplar Bluff outrebounded Sikeston 46-39, only the second time all year that Sikeston came off with fewer missed shots.

Hinton, known more for his offensive contributions in the form of points scored and his rebounding, turned passer on this occasion. He garnered six assists, second to Denis Duncan's seven, and made several steals.

By contrast, the Bulldog offense continued to look more to individual and one-on-one moves by its members and the whole team only came up with ten assists. Very few of the Dogs were willing to give themselves up for the team and the visitors paid for it.

MULE DOMINATION

With 30 seconds left in the first half a pair of free throws by Sikeston's leading scorer, Alonzo Harris, pulled the Dogs within five at 37-32. From that point, through the last half-minute of the first half, and until coach King mercifully emptied his bench with two minutes to go, Poplar Bluff outscored Sikeston 44-19. Never were the Dogs even a threat to the Mules, who totally outclassed them on what was a dark night for coach Bud Spears and his underlings.

As if they didn't have enough troubles, a reserve named Phil Coats came off the PB bench to burn them for eight points and several key plays, all in the second half. Coats' performance made the Mule offense a fearsome thing.

CHARLESTON 57, CAPE CENTRAL 49

The Cape Central Tigers had the best shot at beating the Charleston Bluejays of any team since Kelly, but let the opportunity slide through their fingers in a 57-49 defeat. A second quarter which saw Charleston outscore the Tigers 23-14 sealed Central's doom, but they did have opportunities late in the game.

The much smaller Cape team played Charleston strong on the boards, blocking out well enough to grab 30 of the 63 rebounds in the game. Blake Miller, who scored 16 points for Cape, led all scorers. Lacy Bernard scored all eight first quarter points for the losers and finished with 15.

All five Jay starters scored in double figures, led by Rick Frazier's 14.

FINALS MATCHUP

Charleston takes on the improved Mules in tonight's championship tilt at 8 o'clock. Poplar Bluff has beaten its last three opponents by an average of 37 points. The Jays are unbeaten.

The much-improved Tigers will try to wrest the third-place trophy from Sikeston at 6:30.

Mike Shannon to visit Sikeston next Wednesday

Former St. Louis Cardinal player Mike Shannon-- currently a broadcaster with the team-- will visit Sikeston next Wednesday, local beer distributor Bob Ralph said yesterday.

Shannon, who will be the third man on the Cardinal broadcasts this season along with Jack Buck and Bob Starr, will be in town representing the Cardinals and Anheuser-Busch. He is involved in promotional work for the team and the brewery this year.

Ralph, the Anheuser-Busch distributor in Sikeston, said that Shannon would be visiting various businesses in Sikeston beginning at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday and will be here throughout the day.

Shannon broke in with the Redbirds as an outfielder in 1962. He made the transition to third base in 1967 after Charley Smith was traded -- a move that proved to be a key to the Cardinals' pennant-winning teams in '67 and '68. A rare kidney disease contributed to his retirement in 1970.

The first strike in America took place in New York City in 1741. It was a bakers' strike protesting municipal regulation of the price of bread.

Will Grimsley's Sports World

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special
Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bjorn Borg strode into the interview area of the Spectrum. His long, blonde hair dripped with sweat. He wore a coonskin coat. In the crook of his arm he cradled eight tennis racquets strung to an unbelieveable 80-pound tension.

His strong Viking face was a frozen mask. Who could have guessed that this 20-year-old phenom of the burgeoning world of tournament tennis had just been wiped out in a second-round match of the U.S. Pro Indoor Championships?

Win or lose, Borg always has managed to retain an icy, unflappable reserve. On this occasion, there was a more understandable balm.

The ink was hardly dry on the $100,000 check he had picked up three days earlier for beating Jimmy Connors in the televised Grand Slam of Tennis final at Boca Raton, Fla. Outside in the hall, a man was waiting to offer him $1.5 million to sign a contract with the Cleveland Nets of World Team Tennis.

In the wings were two of Borg's chief rivals for world honors—Connors, the game's "hit man," a court assassin on the loose, and Ilie Nastase, the mad Romanian given to crazed outbursts which sadly blunt one of the game's greatest talents.

Connors got a reported $750,000 for signing with Lamar Hunt's World Championship of Tennis this season. He is guaranteed $500,000 for a challenge match against Nastase, who gets $100,000, in Puerto Rico March 5, and he meets Nastase in a $100,000-winner-take-all Challenge Cup final April 10 at Las Vegas.

It is the new face of tennis-with money cascading like Niagara Falls into the pockets of the white pants brigade.

It is the "in" thing. Court complexes are mushrooming. More than 30 million now play it. And promoters with the aid of television are producing a new sports breed-young, rich, constantly on the move and thoroughly spoiled.

Everyone is asking: When will the bubble burst?

Tennis administrators are concerned. "There are 500 players seeking tournament spots—215 in our organization," says Bob Briner, executive director of the Association of Tennis Professionals. "We have 70 tournaments in the Grand Prix this year with $8 million in prize money. Our aim is to spread the talent as evenly as possible among the promoters."

So far, no one has seen the bottom of tennis' money well. Connors earned $687,335 in prize money last season. Nastase went over $500,000, Borg $400,000. Ten players made $200,000 or more, 16 were above $100,000 and 43 in excess of $50,000.

Mostly they are kids in short shorts, with bulging bankrolls, racquets strung like Stradivariuses, an endless stream of camp followers who all look like long-tressed Farah Fawcetts—and always handy, an airplane timetable.

"What a life," someone was heard to remark in the headquarters hotel restaurant here. "You travel the world at someone else's expense and you travel with a harem."

LILBOURN — New Madrid's tenacious man-to-man defense minimized the height advantage held by the much taller Portageville Bulldogs Thursday night, enabling the Indians to grab a 69-54 decision and move into the finals of the New Madrid County Tournament tonight against Matthews.

Portageville's big men--6-6 Terry Durden and 6-3 Randy Ray--combined for only 17 points in the game, with Durden scoring 11 of them. The quicker Indians outplayed the Bulldogs in every quarter, including a 22-point outburst in the second period and a 20-point spurt in the fourth that put the game away.

Tony Gist was the big gun for the Indians, pouring in 32 points to lead the seven-player attack. Chris Tanner added 17.

Jon Samelton ripped the nets for 30 markers as the Panther jayvees, seeded third, completely dominated Matthews. Mike Williams added 14 points to the Lilbourn attack, while Harvey Dorsey and Donnie Rucker had 12 apiece.

The Panthers take on Portageville tonight in the junior varsity finals at 6:30 prior to the Matthews-New Madrid clash in the varsity bracket at 8:00.

Frosh lose to Meridian at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The much-anticipated rematch between the freshman teams from Sikeston and Cape Central will not take place. The Meridian Bobcats of Mounds, Ill. made sure of that with a convincing 47-38 win over Sikeston in the semifinals of the Cape Girardeau Freshman Tournament Thursday night.

The Bulldog frosh lost the game in the first half as they dropped only their third game of the year and their first to a team other than Cape Central. The Bobcats raced away to a 17-8 first period lead over the second-seeded Bulldogs and were on top 22-12 at the half.

"They just didn't look like the team that I've seen play all year," said Coach Dan Wood, who filled in for Ford Morgan as frosh coach for the Meridian game only. Morgan was in Georgia at an educational conference.

Vinson scored 13 and Patterson 12 for Meridian, which will face undefeated Central at 3:00 Saturday afternoon at Central High School in the finals.

Mike Sales was once again high point man for Sikeston, this time putting in 12 markers. Sikeston will take on Notre Dame at 1:30 Saturday in the consolation contest.

An overwhelming loss like the one to Poplar Bluff is, of course, dissappointing, but it had to come sometime. The Mules were an impressive team while dealing out the punishment and Sikeston was less than impressive. But Sikeston had beaten Poplar Bluff some 13 times in a row and the combined factors added up to an embarrassing defeat.

Sikeston has been up and down this year, at most times down, and the play of the team has been puzzling to most people. The Bulldogs are not as talented as a year ago, but they have the talent to be a solid team. There is some intangible missing from the squad--a hardd thing to put your finger on. There are no bad attitudes apparent on the squad and no shirkers, but for some reason things haven't clicked yet. Hopefully, they will before regional time.

There is little sentiment and less common sense on the loose among the professional teams in Baltimore. Recently the Colts fired two coaches very instrumental in the resurgence of the Baltimore NFL franchise. Earlier GM Joe Thomas had been cast aside. These men, one the actual creator of the fearsome "Sack Pack" Colt defensive line, were very instrumental in the Colts' emergence as a playoff contender. Now they are gone.

The Baltimore Orioles baseball team ingloriously dumped perennial All-Star Mike Cuellar after a rotten '76 season, despite the many years of fine service. They are also subtly nudging thirdbaseman Brooks Robinson toward the door as his magnificent talents decline.

I guess if the players are going to milk the management for all the money they can get, management and team loyalty, etc., is going to go out the window.

These are hard-hearted times, ladies and gents.

Bad news for radio purists. Frog-throated Mike Shannon will be in the broadcast booth during the summer of 1977. However, this is good news for those who appreciate his friendly and breezy dialogue.

...great crowd at the wrestling match Wednesday night at the fieldhouse. About twice as many people saw the "match of the year," as made the long trip to Poplar Bluff for the basketball game the following night.

What is Sikeston's number one winter sport?

Alaska is two and a half times the size of Texas and nine times as large as all of New England.

Meet Richalnd in Stoddard finals

By CHARLIE FRANCIS
Daily Standard

BLOOMFIELD– The Advance Hornets and Woodland Cardinals seem to take delight in upsetting each other in the semifinal round of tournaments.

Woodland pulled off the latest surprise in the rivalry, grabbing a thrilling 60-58 decision over the Hornets in double overtime in last night's semifinals of the Stoddard County Tournament. Advance had knocked off the Cardinals in the semifinals of the Woodland Tournament early in the season.

The Woodland victory set up a meeting between the Cardinals and top-seeded Richland Saturday night at 8:30 in the tournament finals.

A spectacular performance by Advance forward Steve Vavak seemed was overshadowed by the last-minute heroics of Woodland's Mike Moyers. Moyers had only twelve points in the game, but two of the buckets came in overtime, including a tip-in of Derek Mondy's missed shot at the buzzer of the second overtime period that put Woodland in the finals.

But Vavak was the big story of the battle for the Hornets, who lost for only the fourth time this season. The 6-3 senior poured in 32 points in the game, including eight during a fourth quarter Advance comeback that brought them from six points behind with a little more than a minute left to a tie score. In fact, Advance had a chance to win in regulation time, but Vavak's 25-footer at the buzzer rimmed the hoop twice before spinning out.

"I guess we started our delay a little too early," said Woodland coach Kevin Arand about his team's collapse in the final period of regulation play. "We wanted them to come out in their trap so that we might get someone open underneath, but they had a different trap than we expected."

The Vavak-led spurt knotted the score at 52-all and sent the contest into the first overtime frame, which saw both teams score four points. It was Vavak's field goal late in that three-minute period that forced another overtime and kept the big crowd at the Bloomfield gym on the edge of their seats.

As in the first overtime, both teams played very cautiously in the second extra period. Sophomore guard Dennis Wheatley of Advance sank both ends of a pressure-packed one-and-bonus free-throw situation with 12 seconds to go to knot the score again at 58-all and make the possibility of yet a third overtime seem likely, but Mondy's shot and Moyers' tip-in at the buzzer put the Cardinals in the finals.

It had been a see-saw battle all the way, with both teams holding fourth-quarter leads. Hornet center Mark Robins battled the 6-6 Moyers and 6-4 Jeff Wyatt inside to collect 12 points, but Woodland's big men got the better of the duel. Moyers and Wyatt combined for 26 points, with guard Mondy leading the Cardinal attack with 16. Mondy had missed most of Woodland's earlier loss to Advance with a sprained ankle.

It was the second heart-breaking loss of the night for the Hornets, who also lost in the earlier junior varsity game 49-48 to Bell City.

Advance staged another last-minute comeback in that game, making up six points in the last minute but falling one short at the end. Ellis Jackson scored 14 to lead the second-seeded Cubs, with Steve Austin adding 13 and William Henry throwing in 11. Parks Long's 17 points led the Hornets, who had upset Richland Tuesday night. Jeff Boner added 14.

Advance will meet Bloomfield tonight at 7:00 in the junior varsity consolation game, with the Advance squaring off against Puxico in the varsity third-place match at 8:30. In Saturday night's finals, Puxico and Bell City meet in the jayvee finals at 7:00. Then Woodland will try to become only the second team this season to knock off Richland as they take on the Rebels at 8:30.

Stephenson gets shutout against former teammates

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "The important thing is to keep from watching all the skating that's going on," Wayne Stephenson said. "If you take your eyes off the puck, you're mesmerized."

Stephenson, a Philadelphia Flyers goaltender, stuck to that task for 60 minutes Thursday night and pinned a 2-0 defeat on his former teammates, the St. Louis Blues, in the National Hockey League.

While Flyers Coach Fred Shero thought his team was superior to the margin of the score, Stephenson was more charitable.

"Three different guys asked me about different shots that might have gone in the net," he mused. "I'd say they had two good chances a period. In a game like that, all the shots they make are big."

Philadelphia, while recapturing first place in the NHL's Patrick Division, capitalized on a favorable bounce of the puck to score the only goal it needed.

Each team managed only five shots on goal during a scoreless second period, then the Flyers weathered a St. Louis power play durin the final 20 minutes and added a closing insurance goal on Bill Barber's shot into a net vacated by Ed Johnston.

"It was a close-checking game," maintained Blues Coach Emile Francis, whose team finished with 24 shots on toal against Stephenson to the Fyers' 29.

"The best chance we had was when Chuck Lefley missed the net in the third period," Francis contended. "Other than that, the big opportunity was Bob MacMillan's shot from the slot in the second period."

Shero, unimpressed by St. Louis after watching Philadelphia take a two-point lead over the runnerup New York Islanders in the Patrick Division, criticized the Blues' lack of offensive spark.

"When you're in your own building you've got to be more aggressive," he declared. "We dominated them. The score was no indication of the game."

Stephenson's second shutout of the season avenged a 7-2 loss he suffered 13 months earlier during his last game against the Blues in the Arena.

SeMo U announces new associate dean of students

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A former dean of women at both Missouri Southern College in Joplin and Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield has joined the student personnel services staff at Southeast Missouri State University.

Yvonne A. Wilson, a candidate for a doctorate in higher education with a concentration in student personnel administration at University of Arkansas, became associate dean of students at Southeast Missouri State in mid-January. She fills the position left vacant by the retirement in October of Mary Helen Flentge, who was a member of the university staff for 18 years.

A 1953 graduate of Arkansas College in Batesville, where she majored in history and social science and minored in speech, Miss Wilson began her career in education in 1953 in Blytheville, Ark. She taught sixth grade there for three years and was on the junior high faculty for one year before returning to her alma mater in 1957 as director of admissions.

She remained at Arkansas College until 1964 when she began work on a master's degree at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. She received the degree a year later and was employed at Kansas State Teachers College in Emporia as assistant dean of women.

In 1968, Miss Wilson became the first dean of women at Missouri Southern, and in 1971, she was appointed dean of women at Southwest Missouri State. She remained in Springfield until August 1975 when she returned to the University of Arkansas to work on a doctor's degree.

She expects to complete requirements for the degree in May.

At one time or another during her career in higher education, Miss Wilson has been responsible for a freshman orientation program, women's athletics, residence hall staffing and supervision, and student recruiting.

'Roots' author will speak at ASU

JONESBORO--Alex Haley, internationally known author, world traveler and lecturer and author of the current best seller, "Roots", will speak at 8 p.m. Feb. 9 in the Reng Center ballroom on the campus of Arkansas State University.

The lecture is sponsored by ASU's lecture-concert series and is free to the general public.

During the past eight years, Haley has been engaged in an intensive and challenging research project which has spanned three continents. He pursued a few slender clues of oral family history which he was repeatedly told him through his Tennessee boyhood by his maternal grandmother.

Finally, Haley tracked his maternal family back to a Mandingo youth, named Kunta Kinte, who was kidnapped into slavery from a small village in Gambia, West Africa. This enslaved youth, Haley's seventh-generation forefather, arrived by slave ship in Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29, 1767.

Haley's resulting book, titled "Roots", was published last August by Doubleday, and was subsequently published worldwide in 14 language translations. "Roots" was filmed into the longest television series yet made in the United States, and premiered Sunday on the ABC Television Network. The 12 - hour series is being shown over an eight-day period ending next Sunday.

Finishing high school at the age of 15, Haley attended college for two years before joining the Coast Guard in 1939. After 20 years' military service, Haley retired from the Coast Guard and entered his writing career.

He achieved free-lance sales to such magazines as Harper's The Atlantic Monthly and The New York Times Magazine. He has been an assignment writer for Reader's Digest, and for Playboy, where he initiated the Playboy Interviews feature.

One of his interviews for Playboy was with Malcolm X. Haley's first book was "The Autobiography of Malcolm X", which was published in 1965 in eight languages and sold more than five million copies. It was also selected among the 10 best American books of the 1960's decade.

Haley's appearance will coincide with Black History Week, sponsored by ASU's Black Students Association.

Free income tax help for retirees

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A 46-page 1977 Retirement Income Tax Guide, offered free as a public service by the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association, provides helpful, easy-to-follow tips on preparing income tax returns, including up-to-date information on the provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 and the new Form 1040.

In addition to a simple, line-by-line explanation of Form 1040, the guide offers practical advice on filing requirements; treatment of pension, Social Security and other retirement income; special deductions and exemptions for retirees; and record-keeping. The guide also advises when and where to get outside tax preparation help.

According to government surveys, nearly half of the millions of older Americans who file tax returns each year may be overpaying their income taxes. Methods of determining tax deductions and liabilities become far more complex when persons reach age 65.

For retirees who need tax assistance, the 10-million-member associations also sponsor a free tax counseling service for older taxpayers in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service. More than 9,000 retirees, specially trained by IRS, will serve as volunteer tax aide counselors in 1,500 communities throughout the nation between now and April 15.

For the location of the nearest tax-aide program, write: Tax-Aide, c-o AARP-NRTA, Dept PR, 1909 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20049.

Proposed new high school funding to bring joint session

MALDEN — Feb. 7 has been chosen for a joint Malden City Council-Malden School Board meeting to discuss the chances of securing city funds for building a new high school building.

Jim Darnell, who asked the council for more than $800,000 at its Jan. 10 meeting, appeared at Monday night's meeting to see if aldermen would agree to meet with the school board. The council decided to meet with the board at 7 p.m. at the high school cafeteria.

Darnell, speaking on behalf of the board, said the board wants aldermen to tour the highschool building, which it (the school board) believes is in poor condition and in need of replacement.

At the Jan. 10 council meeting, Darnell and Gary Hogan asked aldermen that half of the city's revenue-sharing funds and half of its sales tax revenue be set aside for the next five years to help finance a new building. At that time, Mayor Sparrel Davis told Darnell and Hogan he wasn't sure of the legality of such action and that giving the school the money might place the city in a financial bind.

Mammoth Juanita is back in business with few changes

PORT COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Mammoth Juanita Musson, with her muu-muu, her menagerie and a chest big enough, she says, to snuff out a forest fire, is back in the restaurant business.

Twice burned out of previous locations in the past quarter-century, the coarse-tongued "gallez" operator is at work again with as few changes as possible from her other restaurants.

"I wear a size 48 double-D bra with enough held over to smother a forest fire," she says loudly. "I'm 53 and I tip the scales at 250 pounds — and you can ask me anything you want, honey, 'cause I believe in telling it like it is.

"A lot of people love me and a lot of people hate me," she adds. "A lot of people think I'm loud and vulgar and obscene. Well I'll tell you, honey, maybe I am. Just maybe I am."

Juanita is quick to add, though, "I ain't never turned away an animal that didn't have a home and I ain't never turned away a man who was hungry."

It's been 23 years since she opened her first galley on the Sausalito waterfront. Since then she has moved seven times and won increasing fame as a good cook with a blistering temper and tongue.

When Juanita's Galley in Fetter's Hot Springs burned down in March 1975, one observer said it was "comparable to what might have occurred had there been an explosion aboard Noah's Ark."

Firemen arrived to find chickens, pigs, goats, cats and peacocks amid a clamor of squeaks, grunts, quacks and screeches. And Juanita in a red muu-mus trapped on the second floor.

Juanita attributes her fondness for animals to the fact she was never allowed to have any pets when she was a child. She treats her broad range of roosters, pigeons, dogs and monkeys as children.

Any day of the year visitors are likely to find Juanita in her galley, in the kitchen, behind the cash register, feeding stray animals or mingling with the customers.

She defends her reputation as a fiery-tongued overseer of her empire, but says she can't help what she is.

J. W. Marshall has opened a new restaurant in the building formerly occupied as a restaurant by Mr. Mangrum. He has refitted the building and has the place looking very inviting.

Guy Young started work Tuesday on the erection of a new five-room bungalow in the south part of town. When the building is completed, Mr. Young will move to Sikeston from his present home in Bertrand. The Sikeston Concrete, Tile and Construction Co., is doing the construction work on this new building.

Attention is called to Dr. R. E. Wiley, who came to Sikeston a few weeeks ago from Decatur, Ill., and has office rooms in the McCoy-Tanner building. He has his residence at the home of Mrs. Schroff on North New Madrid street.

C. E. Mitchell, closed a deal the latter part of last week, where by the lot just south of the building owned and occupied by the C.F. Bruton Real Estate and Investment Co., was transferred to this company. The lot was owned by Mr. Mitchell and his brothers, B. W. Mitchell of Lake Charles, La., and O. H. Mitchell of Phoenix, Ariz., and fronts 25 feet on North New Madrid street. We understand that Messrs. Dunaway and Bruton of the real estate and investment company contemplate enlarging their building to cover this additional lot, also adding another story to their present building.

Judge J. A. Finch of Fornfelt and Thos. Gallivan of New Madrid have formed a law partnership, and will have their office at New Madrid.

United States army units arrived yesterday to assist the Red Cross in caring for thousands of Southeast Missouri refugees, and at President Roosevelt's direction, officers were ordered to be prepared by late Friday night to move to higher ground a minimum of 500,000 persons living within 50 miles on both sides of the Mississippi River from Cairo to Memphis.

A comprehensive immunization program as launched in Southeast Missouri Wednesday. Refugees of Scott, Mississippi, New Madrid, Dunklin, Pemiscot, Butler, and Stoddard counties will be vaccinated against smallpox and to be given the first of typhoid serum injections before the end of this week. Jury gets to curl up with girlie magazine

But with Hustler magazine the defendant — along with its publisher, his wife, his brother and the production manager, the seven men and five women in the jury have been ordered to study 11 issues from cover to cover.

All four defendants are charged with pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime. Publisher Larry Flynt's wife Althea and brother James are charged as associates in publishing the magazine. Al Van Schaik is the production manager.

Testimony began this week after two weeks of jury selection.

Prosecutors say conviction would ban the sale of Hustler in Hamilton County and give authorities around the country a weapon against pornography. The defendants, who face maximum jail sentences of 25 years each if convicted, say what's really on trial is freedom of the press.

In opening remarks, attorneys for both sides warned jurors that they might be shocked by what they saw in the magazine, which has a monthly circulation of 1,448,000 and reportedly earned a multimillion-dollar profit last year for its night club-owning publisher.

Herald Fahringer, attorney for the 33-year-old Flynt, said that although jurors might find Hustler "raunchy, disrespectful, disagreeable and in very bad taste," that does not make it obscene.

But Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. pointed out that besides female nudity, there were articles on bestiality, sadism, bondage and oral sex. Leis, who has a reputation for prosecuting pornography cases, said such articles violated community standards.

The magazine is published in Columbus, and the defendants had appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court, claiming that since none of the defendants lives or works in Cincinnati, the court here has no jurisdiction and the trial should be stopped.

But the higher court ruled unanimously Wednesday that the trial should go on and that the question of jurisdiction can be brought in an appeal if Flynt and his associates are found guilty.

County landfill near Campbell receives county court approval

KENNETT — There may soon be a place to legally dump trash in Dunklin County.

The County Court, at its Jan. 17 meeting, accepted a bid from Pleasant's Excavating of Campbell for operation of the county landfill near Campbell.

Harold and Dennis Pleasant, owners and operators of the firm, based their bid on the size of loads taken to the landfill, which has been closed since October 1976. That was when Charles Shown of Kennett gave up operation of the landfill, saying it wasn't financially worth the effort to keep the landfill open.

Since then, county trash haulers have been forced to take their cargoes to neighboring counties. However, most out-of-county dumping sites have recently been closed to Dunklin County haulers.

County Clerk Billy Horner was quoted as saying no contract was awarded Pleasant's Excavating because the firm has not yet submitted a performance bond. As soon as a bond is submitted and approved by the court, a contract will be awarded. Then, he said, the county landfill should be reopened.

The Pleasant's bid is computed this way: Passenger cars and station, $1; pickup truck, $2; pickup truck with rack, $3; pickup truck with larger rack, $4; one-ton truck, $6; 1 ½- ton truck, $7.50; single axle truck larger than 1½ tons, $10; compactor truck (by-yard rate), $1; other vehicles not already described, $7.50.

Today in U.S. history

By The Associated Press

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1871, Paris surrendered to Germany in the Franco-Prussian War.

On this date:

In 1596, the English navigator Sir Francis Drake died on his ship off Panama.

In 1807, Pall Mall in London became the first street in the world to be lighted by gas.

In 1962, an unmanned American spacecraft, Ranger 3, failed to make a hoped-for lunar landing, passing the moon at a distance of 22,000 miles.

Ten years ago: Peking and Moscow exchanged angry charges about an incident involving Chinese and Russian students in Moscow's Red Square.

Five years ago: In the Vietnam War, fighting broke out within 10 miles of Saigon. It was the closest to the South Vietnamese capital since the Tet offensive of 1968.

Today's birthdays: Pianist Artur Rubinstein is 91. Artist Claes Oldenburg is 48.

Thought for today: Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it. — King Solomon, about 973-933 B.C.

Incidental fees, room and board costs to be increased at SeMo U.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Both incidental fees and room and board costs will go up slightly in each of the next two academic years if Southeast Missouri State University's Board of Regents accepts recommendations it received Thursday from President Robert Leestamper.

The board will act on the recommendations at its March 24 meeting.

The recommendations would increase incidental fees for full-time students who are Missouri residents by $10 per semester next fall and another $15 per semester in the fall of 1978. Out-of-state students would pay an additional $35 per semester next fall and $40 more in the fall of 1978. Charges for part-time students, summer sessions and workshop courses woul be proportionately raised.

Room and board costs would be a flat $480 per semester per student beginning next fall and would go to $495 in the fall of 1978.

Currently, Missouri residents pay incidental fees of $120 per semester, while out-of-state students pay $325 per semester. Room and board costs now vary from $450 to $475 per student per semester, depending upon the residence hall in which a student lives. Most pay the higher rate.

One reason for the increase in incidental fees, according to Leestamper, is that the formula of the Coordinating Board for Higher Education requires an institution to raise at least 25 per cent of its total budget from sources other than state appropriations. In addition, an institution's funding is reduced in proportion to the percentage of out-of-state students who are enrolled, he noted.

Even if the increases are approved, Leestamper said, Southeast Missouri State will remain less expensive to attend than Missouri's other regional universities. The president added that he is looking two years ahead because "the two-year pattern gives us a better opportunity to plan."

In his report to the regents Leestamper said that the dean of students, director of housing and university business office staff have recommended a single rate for all residence halls since essentially the same services are provided students in each hall.

The Southeast Missouri State president said, however, that an additional fee may be recommended for residence hall students who keep automobiles on campus. He noted that if such a plan is adopted, students who wish to avoid the fee would be assigned parking spaces in a sparsely used lot on the north campus rather than in prime areas.

Again this semester, the residence halls at the university are more than 100 per cent occupied, Housing Director Shelton "Butch" Smith told the regents.

Those reserved for men are up overall by 10 residents over 100 per cent occupancy, Smith said, and those for women are up overall by one resident. He noted that 55 coeds are living in the old St. Francis Hospital building which is now called University Hall.

The regents authorized purchase of the building for $150,000 at their December meeting, and university officials rushed to ready a portion of the structure for use during the spring term. As a result, Smith said, the university this semester is not housing any students in motels or apartment houses, as it did during the fall term.

By next fall it is planned that 200 to 225 students can be accommodated in University Hall, and most likely these will be women, Smith said. He said applications for housing are running about 100 ahead of this time a year ago.

The only university housing facility with a substnatial number of vancancies is the Fountain Plaza Apartments, which was leased last summer for use as married student housing. Of the 38 apartments in the complex, 11 are vacant. Twelve are occupied by married couples and 18 single women are living in the other units.

Smith said that next fall all of the units should be filled. More inquiries about married student housing are being received, he said, as the word gets out that Southeast Missouri State has this type of facility.

Registrar Alton Bray told the board that spring semester enrollment now stands at 7,476 with the number of underclassmen up by about 250 over last spring semester and the number of graduate students down by about 200. Many of the graduate students attend evening courses as commuters, and Bray said he felt the bad weather in January had adversely affected this enrollment.

Graduate enrollment will improve, he predicted, by Feb. 8, the date on which official enrollment reports must be calculated for budgetary purposes.

Through other reports Thursday, it was announced:

-That a Chicago consulting engineer and planning firm, De Leuw Cather Company, has been retained to make a comprehensive study of campus parking and will have a progress report ready in early March. Recommendations could be forthcoming at the March meeting of the regents or they may be delayed until May.

-- That the university is taking its case to the State Legislature for about $600,000 more for operations in fiscal 1978 than was recommended by both the coordinating board and Gov. Joseph Teasdale.

Southeast Missouri State will also seek additional funds for capital improvements from the Legislature and will especially press for about $700,000 needed to construct an addition to Serena Industrial and Technical Education Building.

This money was recommended for Southeast Missouri State with a high priority by the coordinating board, but was not included in Teasdale's proposed budget. Basically, Leestamper said, Missouri's new governor cut out all capital improvement funds in his budget except money for general repair and energy control systems.

The president said at this point the outlook for additional funds for capital improvements is "discouraging," but he indicated he is "optimistic about receiving a fair hearing by the Legislature on our request for capital improvement funds."

Leestamper said that if the university is successful in its bid for an additional $600,000 in operating funds, he will recommend that the personal services budget of the university be increased by 10 per cent over this year's amount. Eight per cent of this would be for improvement of salary ranges while 2 per cent would be for promotions, merit raises and fringe benefits.

On the other hand, the president said that if the university gets only what the governor recommended, he will recommend an overall increase of 7 per cent in the personal services budget. Five per cent would be for general salary range improvements.

"It should be noted," he said, "that whichever guidelines are followed, the application of percentage increases does not mean that each person will receive the same rate of increase. The additional funds will be allocated in such a manner as to adjust salary ranges so that they are in equitable relationship to regional and national salary ranges for the positions involved."

The regents approved a new summer school employment policy which phases out after 1978 the faculty's guaranteed summer employment program as well as the summer leave-with-pay program for faculty. In their place the plan provides for increased summer salaries for faculty members "hired according to the needs of the program offered" and promises "a new faculty development program which would have similar objectives to the summer leave-with-pay program but would have additional features."

About $200,000 would be earmarked annually for this, and Leestamper said additional funding for faculty development would be sought from the federal government and private foundations.

Also approved by the regents was a mainor modification in the College of Business' one-year secretarial certificate program and a statement that the university does not discriminate on the basis of sex. The board also gave its approval for Kent Library to become an official state publications depository.

The change in the secretarial program permits students to pursue a "clerical" option and recieve a certificate without completing courses in shorthand. This will better serve student interests as well as manpower needs, according to Dr. William Petrek, vice president for academic services. The change must be forwarded to the Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The statement that Southeast Missouri State does not discriminate on the basis of sex was required to have board approval in order for the university to receive certain federal funds, including those for student aid.

Meramec Dam referendum remains to be tough battle

By TIM WHITE
Missouri Press News

JEFFERSON CITY — Sponsors of bills in the Missouri General Assembly expect a tough battle to get a referendum on the Meramec dam at the same time municipal elections are held April 5.

Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale in December called for the April 5 referendum, saying he would abide by "the will of the people." U. S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton, who has supported the dam, said he also favors the referendum and has urged the Army Corps of Engineers to stop awarding contracts on the project pending results of a referendum.

The question before House and Senate committees is how many people, if any, should vote in a referendum. The Senate bill sponsored by Sen. Joseph Frappier, R-Florissant, calls for a referendum in 13 counties in the Meramec basin, plus the city of St. Louis. The House bill sponsored by Rep. Wayne Goode, D-Normandy, calls for a statewide vote.

For the referendum to be on April 5, a bill should be passed and signed by Feb. 15, and no later than March 1, said Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick. Kirkpatrick said he does not know of another regular election this year, so a referendum would have to be a special election.

Frappier said the cost to the state of a special election for his regional referendum would be $307,000. A fiscal note in Goode's bill states the cost of a statewide special election would be $937,500.

In addition to passage by March 1, to be on the April 5 ballot a bill would have to be passed with an emergency clause putting it into effect immediately upon the governor's signature. The emergency clause would require a two-thirds vote of both houses.

Frappier said a referendum bill will require personal lobbying by Eagleton and Teasdale to pass in time to be on the April 5 ballot. Frappier said he has contacted both by phone, but only Teasdale has sent an aide to testify at committee hearings.

Goode said there is a "real possibility" of passing a bill for an April 5 vote unless opponents delay action on the bill. However, Goode said the bill would not be dead if the April 5 election is missed. "A special election would be cheaper than the dam," he said.

Sen. Franklin Payne, D-St. Louis, chairman of the Senate committee considering Frappier's bill said he would call a vote soon after the committee finishes hearing proponents' and opponents' testimony.

Rep. Charles Becker, D-Arnold, chairman of the House committee considering Goode's bill, said his committee also would hear testimony and vote as soon as possible.

Opposition to a referendum on the Meramec dam is coming mostly from Eastern Missouri business, labor and sportsman's groups who favor continuing construction of the dam.

Clarence C. Barksdale, chairman of the board of First National Bank in St. Louis and past president of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association, said the dam would be good for St. Louis because of the construction and other jobs it would provide for the area.

Barksdale said the Missouri Congressional delegation has supported the project constantly since 1965, spent $35 million on the project and is now "waffling." "They are afraid it will damage their integrity in the Congress. If they want to stop it they should change their minds, not blame it on their constituents."

Richard Mantia, executive secretary-treasurer for the St. Louis Building and Construction Trades Council, said the dam project would create 400 to 500 construction jobs and 5,000 permanent jobs in motels, restaurants and recreational facilities in the area. Mantia said the decision should be left up to the state's congressional delegation.

"We feel a referendum, especially a statewide referendum, would probably defeat the project and endanger other federal projects in the area."

Charles Leick, who ran against Ichord on the issue of the dam, said polls have shown that people statewide are opposed to the dam and that they should be allowed to express themselves before their money is spent on the project. Leick said water supply, flood control and employment the dam would bring have been overplayed, and that land speculators and commercial interests in the area would benefit most from the project.

Gas, power companies extend thanks to public

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — Arkansas- Missouri Power Co. and Associated Natural Gas Co. have extended what president Frank G. Smith called a "sincere thank you" to all their customers for what they did during the past several days in conserving natural gas and electricity.

Smith also reminded customers that much colder weather is apparently due this weekend, possibly around zero again, and that the voluntary reduction in the use of gas is still needed to help stretch the supplies of natural gas.

All natural gas customers should continue using the following steps to reduce gas usage.

1. Residential customers should set their natural gas furnace thermostat at 65 degrees during the daytime and at 60 degrees at night.

2. Commercial customers should reduce their natural gas furnace thermostat setting to 55 degrees at night, and should wait until late in the morning to raise it to 65 degrees;

3. Thermostat settings on natural gas water heaters should be as low as possible.

4. Use of hot water should be cut to an absolute minimum post- poning, if possible, all non- essential uses;

5. Unused rooms should be closed off and not heated.

6. All area schools with "firm" natural gas contracts are being urged to reduce thermostat settings.

Headstart will resume classes

UFO will be discussed Feb. 2 by physics head

Dr. Harley Rutledge, head of the physics department at Southeast Missouri University in Cape Girardeau, will present a lecture and slide show about unidentified flying objects at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Sikeston High School cafetorium.

The meeting, sponsored by the high school math club, will be open to the public.

Rutledge will also talk about a UFO sighting in Sikeston.

The word "avon" originally meant "river" or "stream" in Celtic. It is today the name of several rivers in England and Scotland, including the one which flows through Stratford, birthplace of William Shakespeare.

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT INSULATION

Call 471-5057

The Homefoamers
Scientific Applications, Inc. 1976

Q: How much money can I expect to save on heating bills if I insulate?
A: It depends on the construction type, the degree of window and door heat- loss, the insulating material and how thoroughly the job is done, although estimates range form 15 per cent to 50 per cent.

Q: What is the cost of insulating an average house?
A: Because of variations in the way houses are built, they must be priced individually. For that reason, Arctic Foam has trained estimators - consultants who can give you an exact cost and show you how to get the most for your monev.

A: You might notie a slight change, but it will feel warmer than it actually is. Cold floors usually indicate (again) poor wall insulation, since cold air moves down the walls onto the floor. Cold air ducts or leaky baseboards might cause the flow of cold air.

Q: I want to buy new storm windows. What shall I look for in good quality windows?
A: Look at tight- fitting, high quality double or triple- glazed windows. Since aluminum conducts heat more than wood, wood frames are desirable. Inspect the weatherstripping, tightness of interlocking windows and thermobarriers. All of these added features aren't cheap, but could save almost 20 per cent of your home's heat loss.

Q: Should attic vents or fans be installed or sealed up in the winter?
A: No. Serious trouble can result if you do. Frost builds up in the attic, which can condense on the roof to create ice dams. The timbers can also deteriorate from dry rot.

Q: How can I be sure a good job will be done?
A: Harding Home Comfort, Inc., sends all of its foam applicator crews to school to learn proper, up-to-date techniques. The crew is also taught how to properly patch and clean up all of the small holes drilled in walls for application purposes.

Q: When was urea-formaldehyde foam insulation developed?
A: It was developed in Germany over two decades ago. Urea formaldehyde foam insulation technology was developed by Schaum Chemie, a German Company whose trademark is Isoschaum. In the last 10 years the produce has been liensed for use in the United States. Tests done on German houses foamed with the substance years ago indicate that the foam is still entirely stable, has not cracked or created voids, nor has it deviated from newly applied foam.

Q: Where should a moisture barrier be installed?
A: On the inside of the wall and the ceiling. In some cases where there is a moisture migration problem that can't be solved by normal methods, the ceiling moisture barrier is eliminated and extra ventilation is added.

Q: I am buying a home built by a housing developer. How can I be sure he is putting in enough insulation?
A: With the new Minnesota building codes, the contractor by law must meet these standards. Your local Building Codes Official is the enforement officer to protect your interest in this and all bulding standards.

SEE OUR NEXT AD FOR MORE QUESTIONS AND THE IMPORTANT ANSWERS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT INSULATION. IN NEXT FRIDAY'S PAPER.

Frozen water lines main topic at council

It was decided to try to thaw out as many lines as possible, but Mayor Glen Ayers warned "the more we try to do now the worse we're going to make it."

He pointed out that if lines are thawed out now, unless water is run through them they will burst, and if they are dug up now, they will freeze up even faster during the next hard freeze.

Alderman Sonny McRoy suggested that the only way to keep lines from freezing is to leave a flow of water running from the faucet.

It has to be a cooperative effort, he said.

He suggested that a plumber could be hired at $10 per hour to thaw out frozen pipes but it would be cheaper to rent the necessary equipment and let city employes do the work.

The council did not make a definite decision in that direction, but Ayers told members of the water committee to do all they can to solve the problem, as long as it is "within reason."

The mayor announced that officer Jerry Johnson was appointed chief of police Jan. 17.

Auxiliary officers also appointed on that day included Wayne R. Kem, Tommy Lee Hankins, Donald Ray Parks, Fredrick Leon Rose, Doyle T. Clark, Larry Walpole, Johnny Haws and Farrell Kelly, who was appointed captain of the auxiliary force. The duties of auxiliary officer will involve assisting the police force.

The council decided to put street lights at the corner of Willow and Locust streets, on Reed Street in the middle of the block and at the corner of Roosevelt and Miller.

It was also decided to look next week at a billing machine which has been used by the rural electric cooperative office.

In other action, the council promised Carl Knowles it would find out if part of Center Street has been vacated or not and issued him a building permit for two houses. The council members were of the opinion that stretch of road had been vacated in the 1930's but has not been able to find a record of it.

SeMo U. Board of Regents is scene of spirited contest

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Expiration of the terms of two Republican members of the bipartisan Board of Regents at Southeast Missouri State University reportedly has stirred a spirited contest for the posts.

The terms of Martin Hecht, a Cape Girardeau retail merchant, and Dr. William L. Tomlinson, a St. Louis surgeon, ended as of Jan. 1, although they continue in office until successors are appointed.

The election of a Democratic governor, Joseph P. Teasdale, has brought on the flurry of activity. While the governor would be required to appoint Republicans to the vacancies, it is believed he would not rename the incumbents.

While it is not ruled out that Hecht and Tomlinson could be renamed to their positions, political observers consider it highly unlikely.

According to published reports; at least three names have been presented to Teasdale for his consideration. They are Sydney Pollack, associated with his father in Pollack Hide & Fur Co. and Pollack Steel Supply Co. in Cape Girardeau; James H. Estes, president of Saveway Oil Co., Cape Girardeau; and William W. Bess, Sikeston and Chaffee banker.

Pollack reportedly has the backing of a number of Democrats prominent in the party. He is considered to have stronger Republican ties than either of the other two men who have been proposed to the governor. Pollack is a brother-in-law of Hecht.

Estes has been identified with the Democratic party, and served as pilot for Teasdale when he was in this area during the campaign and hosted a cocktail party for former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes during his senatorial campaign. He is a twin brother of Jerry S. Estes, Democratic magistrate of Cape Girardeau County.

Bess has long been identified with Democratic Party politics in southeast Missouri. He is a close friend of State Sen. John Dennis of Sikeston, for many years sheriff of Scott County.

Bess is vice president of First National Bank of Sikeston and, with Sen. Dennis, has ownership of Bank of Chaffee.

A search through the Official Manual of Missouri shows that all of the Boards of Regents of the regional universities are equally divided in party membership, three Republicans and three Democrats on each.

It was not explained how those identified with the Democratic Party in the past could be named to fill Republican vacancies on the board, although one source said there could be a switch of party allegiance, noting that it has been done before.

There has been no indication when Teasdale will make appointments to the Board of Regents here or to the boards at the other universities.

Dexter council takes steps in bringing in more industry

DEXTER — The Dexter City Council took another step putting the city closer to landing another industry here at a special meeting late Wednesday afternoon.

Also, during the 45-minute meeting, the council blasted the city's garbage collection contractor, looked at expanding the police department and set a price for the parking meters that used to be on the city's off-street parking lots.

But, the main purpose of the meeting was a formal first-step in preparing for a possible new industry in Dexter.

An official announcement and full details of the plant was expected today. Contacts have been mdade during the past several weeks between company officials, the Dexter Chamber of Commerce, city leaders and Charles Clodfelter of the Bootheel Economic Development Council.

The initial location for the firm will be in the large building now held by the Dexter Airport Board, just east of the East City Park on Highway 114. The building at one time housed Dexter Engineering Co. and lately had been used for storage.

The city has agreed to undertake a major renovation of the building, at a cost of some $10,000. The firm will rent the building from the city, on a revenue bonds agreement, similar to other industries in the city. The revenue bonds are paid out at no cost to the taxpayer, it was noted.

Clodfelter explained to the council that contacts have been made with the Florida firm since last November, and that the company is "highly recommended" by the State Commerce and Industrial Development Agency.

Clodfelter explained that the firm is presently producing to its full capacity at its Florida plant, and has orders already through the coming year.

The council unanimously agreed to give initial approval to up to $500,000 in revenue bonds, and agreed to work on a plan to renovate the building.

Mayor Willis Conner noted that the Airport Board had also met on the proposal, and had pledged full cooperation.

In other business, the council was critical of the garbage collection system.

The city hired a private contractor, Bob Woods, sometime ago, and since then there have been "several complaints," the council said.

Conner noted that several people have complained that Woods never picked up their garbage when the roads were bad, and that many of the alleys were never traveled by the garbage collectors.

Conner said the city supervisor of the program, Roy Jackson, has had to pick up much of the garbage in a city truck, and Jackson "wants to know what to tell Woods."

Ward Two Alderman Les Day said "I'd authorize Roy (Jackson) to tell him (Woods) to pick it up or turn in his keys."

The other council members agreed, pointing out that Woods had contracted to pick up the garbage, and, as Ward One Alderman Eldon Cooper said, "100 per cent effort should be made to pick it up."

The council passed a resolution telling Woods that the city "wants the trash 'picked up."

Thursday morning Woods told city officials that he had obtained another smaller truck and would step up efforts to stay on a trash collection schedule. Woods said in the future, when streets are snow-covered, he will inform the people about schedule changes, and would "get the garbage picked up."

The Council agreed to ask for $75 each for the 50 double-head parking meters taken from the off-street parking lots last week. Conner said the city had a chance to sell the meters to Chaffee.

The council, with Street Supt. Gene Hyuten discussed purchase of a spreader for use in snow removal and agreed to list specifications for two new large trucks needed this year by the streets crews.

Security Federal announces $250,000 expansion

Security Federal Savings and Loan will build a 5,000 square foot addition to its office on North Main Street, according to Jim Beaird, president and executive officer of the association. The space will be used to house the firm's corporate offices. The new addition is shown in this architect's drawing. The addition, which will cost about $250,000, will be built by Ryan Construction Co. Beaird said work is expected to begin almost immediately with work expected to take six to 10 months. The addition will be built on the north side of the association building. It will include several more offices, a secretarial pool, room for future offices, a lounge and board room.

Beaird said a manager will be hired to run the office on North Main Street and corporate officers will no longer handle the day-to-day chores of running the office. He said this will free them to handle long range planning and other corporate functions.

The association has branch offices on Center Street in Sikeston, and in Dexter, New Madrid, Malden, Poplar Bluff, Portageville and Hayti.

The new Dexter facility, under construction now, will be ready for occupancy by April, beaird said.

Thieves grap purses at hospital

Purses, motorcycles and electronic equipment have been reported stolen in Sikeston, it was announced today by the Public Safety Department.

The purses were stolen by two men from a utility room in wing 2F at Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

Public safety officers said the purses belonged to Betty Williams, 113 Alabama St., and Marian Ann Bowen of Lilbourn, The purses contained money, personal papers and cash.

Two men entered the wing and while one man grabbed his stomach and distracted the women, the other entered the utility room and took the purses. Both men fled down separate stairways to a car outside the emergency room where a third man waited.

The purse belonging to the Bowen woman was later found near the OFMCO building on Route H.

Two motorcycles were reported stolen from a storage shed at 531 S. Frisco St. sometime between Tuesday and Thursday.

A cycle belonging to Miles Eugene Curtis, Kingsway Motel, North Main St., was valued at $2,000.

Doyle Wayne Currey, 233 Ruth St., reported the theft of an eight-track tape player worth $90 and two speakers worth $25 from his home sometime Thursday afternoon.

To attract industry

Chamber discusses building

The possiblity of erecting a shell building to attract industry to Sikeston was discussed Thursday at a noon luncheon of the Sikeston Area Chamber of Commerce.

Bill Wellborn, executive secretary of the chamber, revealed that Sikeston just recently lost two industrial prospects because the city did not have a building into which they could move.

A shell building is one in which the foundation and walls and roof are built on specualtion. When a manufacturing firm agrees to move into the building, the interior is finished to its specificiations.

Allen Blanton told the chamber that there are 300 manufacturers seeking locations for new plants and 16,000 communities offering sites.

Those communities with shell buildings have the edge on those which do not, Blanton said.

Sikeston has been growing at a rate of one new industry every five years, and the city cannot continue at that slow rate, Blanton said.

He added that it takes $1,000 a year to education a person in Sikeston, and half of them have to leave town at the end of school because there are no jobs to keep them here.

Wellborn said that available buildings "are the hottest thing going," and any community that has one is "way out ahead of the competition."

A developer in Blytheville, Ark., has built and sold three shell buildings, adding 1,000 jobs to that city's labor force, Wellborn said.

A 50,000 square foot shell building in New Madrid will probably sell within the next few months, Wellborn said.

He pointed out that Anchor Toy Co. came to Sikeston because of an available building as did Triangle PWC and Ralph Edwards Sportswear.

Wellborn said there are two ways to finance construction of a shell building, by private investors or public subscription.

Private development is not too common, because the building must be low-priced to sell and there is little profit, Wellborn said.

Jackson recently held a public subscription drive for an industrial park and raised $240,000, he said.

A committee was appointed to look into the possibility of building a shell building in Sikeston. On the committee are David Friedman, Allen Blanton, Chuck Grant, Clem Beal, Charles Church, Fred Steward and Scott Matthews.

Brown Dirt liquor license suspended

The liquor license for the Brown Dirt Cowboy tavern, 209 E. Center St., was suspended for 14 days by the City Council following a public hearing Thursday afternoon.

The suspension will take effect following a hearing in February or March by the State Division of Liquor Control in connection with state law violations.

The hearing was the first ever held by the City Council on a liquor license violation.

The tavern owner, Lawrence Luber, offered no defense against the charges that he allowed underage drinking in the establishment on Dec. 18 and Oct. 22.

Twenty witnesses had been subpoened by Luber's attorney, but were dismissed before the hearing began.

Undercover agents Gary Lee Spurgeon and William John Torno told the council that On Dec. 18 they entered the tavern and saw eight "youthful looking persons" sitting around a table.

One of the eight went to the bar and bought a pitcher of beer from bartender Bobby Glen Hosey and a second youth bought beer from Paul Luber. The pitchers were used to fill all the glasses at the table.

The agents said they checked the eight young people and found that six of them were under age. Torno said they were at the tavern investigating complaints that minors were drinking at the tavern.

Public Safety Officer Sgt. Richard Couch told the council that on Oct. 22 he and Detective Sgt. Dan Hinton entered the

Kidnap suspects bound over for trial

CHARLESTON -- Two East Prairie men, Ricky Jackson and Richard Oliphant, were bound over to Circuit Court for trial on kidnaping charges Thursday by Judge W. Clifton Banta Sr., following their preliminary hearings in Magistrate Court.

Jackson and Oliphant are accused of the Jan. 12 kidnaping of John Wayne Davis, 24, of St. Louis and formerly of East Prairie, and remain in custody under $20,000 bonds each. A third man, Dale Crump of East Prairie, is free on $20,000 bond and his preliminary hearing is scheduled for Feb. 10.

In related cases, Joyce Gore and Kevin Johnson of East Prairie, pleaded guilty to amended charges of attempting to bribe a witness, reduced from felony charges on recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Edward C. Graham. The two were given suspended one-year jail sentences and placed on two-year supervised probation on condition they pay court costs and obey the law. Miss Gore paid costs of $58.60 and a second count of attempting to bribe a witness was dismissed. Johonson's costs totaled $92.10.

The two pleaded guilty to threatening Randy Williams, a witness to the kidnaping.

Witnesses called during the lengthy preliminary hearing by Prosecuting Attorney Graham were Davis, Clarence Davis, Randy Williams and Mona Vaughn of East Prairie, Deputy Sheriff Dennis Turley and Edward Marshall of Matthews Route One.

According to Davis, he was in Randy Williams' car the night of Jan. 12 along with Oliphant, who was sitting in the front seat with Williams, and his brother, Clarence Davis. After driving throug'i East Prairie several times and buying a six-pack of beer, Davis said Oliphant suggested they drive out east of town where some young people were having a party. This was about 9:15 p.m.

A short distance down a county road, south of Lewis' Eastside Mobil Station, Oliphant reportedly told Williams to stop the car so he could get out and "use the bathroom or stretch his legs."

Seconds later Davis said two men came up, one shoved Oliphant against the car, then opened the car door and told him to get our.

Continuing, Davis said one of the men wore sunglasses and a sock cap and carried a pistol. The other wore a ski mask over his face and held a shotgun.

Stating that he recognized Jackson by his voice, Davis said that although he did not know Crump personally he had seen him around town and recognized his face when Crump pulled off the ski mask before tape was placed over his eyes.

"We walked about 70 to 100 feet down the road to a car parked in a field road. I asked Ricky what was going on and he told me to shut up and I wouldn't get hurt. I grabbed the pistol and he told me to let go or he'd let me have it right there", Davis testified.

Arriving at the car, Davis said a gag was put in his mouth, taped placed over this and his eyes and his hands were tied behind his back with a nylon-like cord.

" I was put in the back seat of the car. We drove for about 15 or 20 minutes, then they stopped and put me in the trunk." While in the rear seat Davis said there was someone sitting on either side of him and that it was possible that there was someone sitting on the passenger side of the front seat also. If known, the identity of the other persons in the car was not revealed during the hearing and charges have not been filed against anyone other than Oliphant, Jackson and Crump

Managing to free his hands, he used a rod which holds down the spare tire to pry open the trunk lid. He said he jumped from the trunk and began to run across the field, lying down in the snow at one point when he heard the car coming back.

Concluding his direct testimony, Davis said he walked to the farm home of Edward Marshall from where he called his mother and later went to the city hall in East Prairie where he reported the kidnaping.

Introduced in evidence by the prosecution was the trunk lid from Mona Vaughn's car, a camera box and a jack stand. Scratches on the locking mechanism of the lid were pointed out and the other items were allegedly described by Davis to law enforcement officials as things he "felt" with his hands while locked in the trunk. A wool blanket, and a pillow, also found in the car, and pieces of tape taken from Davis' clothing were sent to the crime laboratory and have not been returned.

Testimony from Williams and Clarence Davis were basically the same. Both related that the two men came up to the car shortly after Oliphant told Williams to stop the car, with the one armed with the shotgun standing at the rear of the car with the barrel of the gun near the rear glass. The man with the pistol, identified as Jackson by both Williams and Davis, stood near the front of the car, ran up and opened the car door and told John Wayne Davis to get out. Neither could idenify the man with the shotgun, presumed to be Crump.

Williams and Davis also agreed that Oliphant got back into Williams' car and began to use the citizens band radio calling for help as they dorve off. While Williams testified it did not appear that Oliphant was involved in the kidnaping, Clarence Davis said on cross-examination "he figured Oliphant had set us up".

Turley, the first officer to investigate, said he heard the emergency call on a citizens band radio while at the home of Virgil Moore in East Prairie, Requesting that the callers meet him at Lewis' station, Turley said a short time later he was told of the kidnaping by Williams, Davis and Oliphant, who accompanied him to the scene.

From the description given by the tnree and from tire tracks and an imprint of the gas tank in a snow drift, Turley said he was able to establish that the car could be that of Mona Vaughn.

Turley said he saw John Wayne Davis sometime arount 10:30 p.m. Jan. 12 at the city hall in East Prairie. At that time he said Davis had several scratches and some bruises on his face and indentations around his wrists. The officer said Davis was also able to describe some of the articles he had felt with his hands while locked in the trunk.

After receiving permission from Miss Vaughn, who told Turley she had loaned her car out, the officer said he searched the trunk and found a blanket, pillow, camera box and loose spare tire, the articles described by Davis.

Testimony from Miss Vaughn, who is employed by Crump's Restaurant in East Prairie, revealed that she had loaned her car to Marsha Crump, Sale Crump's sister, earlier in the night of Jan. 12 and around 8 p.m. to his wife, Judy Crump, to run some errands. She related that Judy Crump at one point called her on the phone and asked if Dale could use her car and she gave permission. Her car was parked at the rear of the restaurant at 10 p.m. when she got off work, she said, although she did not see who brought it back.

The final witness was Edward Marshall, who testified that John Wayne Davis came to his house, seven miles southewest of East Prairie about 10 p.m. Jan. 12 and stayed there until someone came to pick him up about 11 p.m.

Marshall described Davis as cold, nervous and shaking. He said he used the telephone to call his mother and that he overheard him tell her he had been kidnaped, however, Davis, according to Marshall, did not elaborate or tell him what had occurred, saying only that it was a "long story".

Jackson and Oliphant were arrested on the kidnaping charges about 1 p.m. Jan. 13 and Crump turned himself in at Farmington State Hospital two days later.

After its investigation into the U.S. Postal Service, the General Accounting Office (GAO), a watchdog agency for the Congress, has concluded that for the Postal Service to break even by 1984, it will have to raise first class mail rates to 34 cents an ounce.

The 1970 law which established the Postal Service required it to become self-sufficient by 1984. However it is apparent that there is no way it can achieve that objective without service cutbacks.

The GAO concludes that the Postal Service won't be able to operate without subsidy unless the public is willing to curtail mail deliveries to three days a week, accept the firing of half the personnel in post offices and cutback on other services.

A spokesman for the GAO says even if first class rates were to be raised to 34 cents an ounce by 1984, it would still be impossible for the Postal Service to become self-sufficient since higher rates would cause people to mail fewer letters.

P.S. TO THE NEWS

CIVIL DEFENSE
By PHYLLIS SCHLAFLY
Copley News Service

A 374-page book that sells 500,000 copies is a best-seller in any language. A book that sold that many copies inside Russia has just been published in the United States. I wonder if it will sell even 1,000 here. The book has no sex appeal. The people pictured in the book are covered with many layers of clothing.

The book is entitled, simply, "Civil Defense." For the Russians, it is a how-to-do-it manual on how to survive a nuclear war. For Americans, it is a manual to dispel the four myths that our government and people have swallowed during the last decade.

1. "Nuclear war is unthinkable." While Americans have engaged in the mass delusion that they could cram the nuclear genie back into the bottle by NOT thinking about it, the Soviets have been doing a great deal of imaginative thinking about it. They think about how to fight a nuclear war, how to win it and how to survive it.

2. "Detente and disarmament are the keys to peace." The Soviets don't buy that American myth at all. The Soviets believe and proclaim that nuclear superiority of one nation is the key to peace -- on their terms, that is.

The top Russian military strategist and marshal of the Soviet Union, A. Grechko, stated shortly before he died: "The greater the combat ability of the armed forces of our country, the more powerfully they are equipped and the better the personnel are trained, the more peace there will be on earth."

3. "Nuclear war will be deterred by mutual assured destruction." The theory of this myth is that each country will be deterred from striking the other by the knowledge that the other will strike back. The civilian population of each side is, thus, hostage to the other.

The trouble is the Soviets haven't the slightest intention of cooperating in this mutuality, and their book on civil defense proves it. The Soviets believe that one side can carry out a preemptive first strike so massive that it will preclude the other from striking back at all.

4. "Nuclear war would be so destructive that, once one side pushes the button, it will be the end of the human race." This was the message of such popular books and movies as "On the Beach" and "Dr. Strangelove."

The Soviets reject this theory in toto. Their book on civil defense shows how they plan to save lives in the event of nuclear war.

Dr. Leon Goure of the Center for International Studies at the University of Miami has said that "the United States might lose as many as 100 million people in the event of a Soviet attack ... the Soviet Union, on the other hand, might lose less than it did in World War II."

Gen. Daniel James Jr., commander in chief of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD), recently explained why the United States stands to lose so many: "We have NO (antiballistic missile) defense against ballistic missiles."

The best-selling Soviet book on civil defense explains why substantially all the Russian population will survive. Their civil defense plans are detailed, comprehensive and expensive. They include urban evacuation, shelter construction, the training of civil defense units and of the general population, and the protection of industry, services and agriculture.

Civil defense in the United States is best described in one forceful four-letter word: a joke.

The underlying theory of the Soviet civil defense program is that, as Grechko emphasized, "the winning of victory in a war depends in the final analysis on the standard" of the country's preparation for defense against a nuclear attack, and that it "must have the same organized and planned character as the training of the army and navy."

If the Soviet manual on civil defense could become a best-seller in the United States, we might have a chance to replace the false myth of mutual assured destruction with the safety of mutual assured survival.

BOND 'CLEANED OUT' OFFICE, TEASDALE AIDES COMPLAIN

By T. Wayne Mitchell
Jefferson City Correspondent

Jefferson City — Thousands of dollars worth of equipment and supplies removed from the Missouri governor's office in the closing days of Gov. Christopher Bond's administration has been returned to Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale.

In what the aides termed a "childish trick," the outgoing Republican governor declared as "surplus" last month a wide range of expensive furniture, cameras and radio and television equipment owned by the governor's office. The items were transferred to Phelps.

Cliff Faddis, an aide to the new Democracit governor, said the governor's office was left literally without pencils and paper by Bond and his staff when Teasdale was sworn in Jan. 10.

"We're mature human beings trying to run a government," Faddis said. "We naturally resent the former governor playing games; we just wanted the material returned that was purchased with governor's office funds."

Bond, who reportedly was staying at his parents' home in Mexico, Mo., while considering possible job offers, could not be reached for comment last night.

Phelps yesterday said he was aware that equipment was transferred to his office but was unaware that all of the governor's office expendable supplies also were removed by Bond.

He said the equipment was transferred because he has used much of it co-operatively with Bond and he was uncertain whether the cooperation would continue under a Democratic governor.

However in an effort to avoid a major confrontation between the two state officials, William Kimsey, acting commissioner of administration, yesterday assured Phelps that he could use audio equipment and other expensive machines returned to Teasdale's office.

It also was learned yesterday that Bond closed the St. Louis branch of the governor's office in the waning days of his term and attempted to transfer much of the office equipment to Phelps. However Kimsey acted to prevent the transfer soon after Teasdale became governor.

Equipment that was declared surplus by Bond and removed from Teasdale's office includes six tape recorders, a television, two slide projectors, two cameras and lenses, an automatic electric typewriter, an automatic signature signing machine and other equipment. Also declared surplus by Bond were a desk, chair, a credenza, storage cabinets and other furniture items from the St. Louis governor's office.

Faddis said the former governor had abused the state Surplus Property Law that permits items no longer needed by one agency to be declared surplus and transferred to other state agencies.

Before leaving for Washington yesterday to attend the inauguration of Jimmy Carter as President, Teasdale said the recovery of the equipment and supplies was "vital to the operation of the governor's office."

COTTONSEED HULLS MAKE GOOD ROUGHAGE

Cottonseed hulls make a good source of roughage for winter feeding of cattle. The hulls, a byproduct of cotton ginning, are readily eaten by cattle and provide about 45 per cent digestible energy in the diet, according to U.S. Departent of Agriculture research.

In experiments at the Beltsville (Md.) Agricultural Research Center, growing steers were fed diets containing various combinations of 100 per cent crude protein equivalent supplements. Their supplements contained biuret or urea as the nonprotein nitrogen (NPN) sources.

In two diets, part of the nitrogen in the NPN was replaced with natural proteins in the form of either soybean meal or fishmeal. Steers on all diets were fed cottonseed hulls, minerals, and vitamins.

The trials were conducted by USDA animal scientists Robert R. Oltjen, David A. Dinius, and H. Keith Goering.

When steers were fed only biuret or urea as the NPN source, they gained 1.2 pounds per day. However, when a small part of the nitrogen in the NPN was replaced with fishmeal or soybean meal, steers gained about 1.5 pounds per day.

Adding soybean meal or fishmeal encouraged cattle to eat the cottonseed hulls. Cattle ate about 3.1 per cent of their body weight in cottonseed hulls per day. Adding monensin, a rumen stimulant, to the diet decreased the intake of cottonseed hulls and reduced gains.

These experiments were repeated, substituting chopped cornstalks or barley straw for cottonseed hulls in two diets. Steers fed cornstalks lost weight and consumed only about half as much as did steers fed cottonseed hulls.

Steers fed barley straw fared slightly better than cattle fed cornstalks—gaining about 0.4 pound per day—but ate only two-thirds as much as cattle on cottonseed hulls.

Cattle fed cottonseed hulls gained at or above the 1 to 1.5 pounds per day often recommended for overwintering of steers.

"These results indicate," said Oltjen, "that it is feasible for cattlement to winter their steers on diets containing cottonseed hulls as the sole rougage source, supplemented only with NPN, vitamins, and minerals."

"And what will you give me if I set your wife at liberty?" asked Cyrus.

"I will gladly give you my life," replied the prince.

Cyrus, touched by such true nobility, set them both free without recompense.

That evening, when the prince and his wife rejoiced together over their freedom, he said, "Did you not think Cyrus a very handsome man?"

The wife replied, "I did not notice him sufficiently well to tell."

"Where were your eyes?" exclaimed the prince.

Replied the faithful wife, "I had eyes only for the man who said he would lay down his life for me!"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Days of Drums:
New Labor Warning
To White House

WASHINGTON — Rarely has the powerful chief of union chiefs, George Meany, unloosed so much political panache as he has in the past fortnight. Even at 82 he's opened a multi-front counterattack on intellectual, academic and political forces now attempting to invade his "movement" and crack the influence, internally and internationally, of America's huge labor federation.

Since Monday, Jan. 10, the crusty AFL-CIO leader has whipped up a blizzard matching any blast of this week's ice age. That day Meany surprised his colleagues by attacking "Oilcan Eddie" Sadlowski, the new boy on the labor bloc who has yet to win a major union office. Thus Meany tangled with someone he would usually not even grunt at in passing.

But why did Meany, who has warred only with giants, yank Sadlowski onto a level with himself when this United Steelworkers union Chicago-Gary area director is still just a newsperson's person across much of the land? Albeit, Sadlowski is now an even-chance candidate for the big union's presidency in the Feb. 8 balloting. Those close to Meany interpret this move as the usual Meany stance-- like a buffalo, old Gene McCarthy once said. Meany, leader of the AFL-CIO's 14.5 million members, "digs in his feet, lowers his head" and crashes on through.

The 38-year-old Sadlowski actually is the symbol of all those in ultra-liberal, academic and political circles who have tried for almost 40 years to smash Meany and block the AFL's forward-crunching movement.

Contributing heavily to Sadlowski, for example, is "Ping" Ferry of New York, who once helped direct the late Sidney Hillman's CIO-inspired "Citizens' Political Action Committee," first of its kind, way back in 1943-44. Hillman and Meany had a cobra-flute relationship. Campaigning actively on the typewriter today for Sadlowski are such Meany-stinging critics of the AFL-CIO as Ralph Nader and Harvard Prof. John Kenneth Galbraith, who believes that the day of big labor is as dead as the giant Mesozoic dinosaur.

And that ever-present spirit of persistent aggressive attacks on labor's leadership, Walter Reuther's brother Victor, is to Meany what the red flag is to the AFL-CIO chief politically. Vic Reuther has been unsuccessfully attempting to destroy Meany for decades. Now add Sadlowski's attorney, Joe Rauh, and others in the steel union rebels' print-out of financial contributors and you aren't very far from the new political crowd in Washington.

Thus, on Jan. 10, Meany in absentia because of the flu, directed two significant closed-door conferences. In the morning his special legislative high command subcommittee met -- and sharply criticized President Carter's economic program.

That was the same morning of the attack on Ed Sadlowski -- Meany's symbolic declaration of war on the "limousine liberals," the intellectuals, the academicians, all now returned to what they believed is power under Jimmy Carter.

Then meaningfully, that afternoon, Meany disclosed he had convinced the prodigal, Harvard's John Dunlop, to return to Washington even though John had been publicly rejected by the President. Prof. Dunlop returned indeed. He chaired a five-hour conference of powerful labor and industrial leaders at the Hay Adams Hotel.

During this unreported gathering in a private salon, such influential management leaders as Reg Jones, GE's chairman, and former Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz (now with Bechtel) sat on one side of the table. On the other side were AFL-CIO secretary-treasurer Lane Kirkland, "chairman" of the labor group, the Maritime Trades Department's Paul Hall, the men's garment and textile union chief Murray Finley and I. W. Abel, retiring steelworkers' union president.

Together, these men of labor and commerce are sufficiently influential on the Hill to set considerable congressional policy once the committee members agree by consensus. And they will meet quarterly -- if not sooner. Their voice will be heard in the White House. And much of what is passed on to President Carter via Fritz Mondale will be the words of John Dunlop and George Meany. And where Jimmy Carter will need the most help is on the Hill.

And that Monday, Jan. 10, there was a consensus. Neither side wanted to go public. That's not the unofficial labor-management committee's style. They did get word back to the new administration. The message was they agreed more with labor's demand for heavier spending and a continuous tax deduction than with Jimmy Carter's economists.

This gossamer union-industry "soft-speak" group, self-financing, with no powers except for what its prestigious members can engender in their own bailiwicks, want more federal billions poured out so there could be heavier capital construction and more jobs.

Further, on Thursday of that week, Meany ran a two-day session of a newly-coordinated national organizing committee. He had shaken the flu bug. He wound up his speech by telling the AFL-CIO officials: "I've got to go back to the office and see what Jerry Ford is doing and then check on Jimmy Carter." Everybody laughed. But that didn't seep the steam from the discussions for a far-flung new unionizing campaign.

And at a cocktail and steak luncheon at the Capital Hilton, Meany introduced Secretary of Labor-designate, Ray Marshall. It was all very friendly. Most of the 60 AFL-CIO leaders and staffers knew the lone guest of honor -- somewhat. Then Meany summed it all up: "Anytime we don't agree (with the Carter administration -- VR) you'll hear from us."

That message was loud and clear.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U.S. Oil Problems Still Unsolved

by Jack Anderson
and Les Whitten

WASHINGTON -- Three years after the Arab oil embargo, Washington still hasn't developed a plan to protect the nation from another oil squeeze.

This incredible failure is acknowledged in a secret national security memo, known as Policy Study No. 38, which President Jimmy Carter found waiting for him when he settled into the Oval Office.

The recent cold spell, meanwhile, has put a squeeze on America's dwindling oil and gas reserves, even though there is no embargo.

A year ago, President Gerald Ford ordered his national security adviser, Brent Scowcroft, to set up a task force to find ways "to ensure a reliable supply of required energy imports at reasonable prices over the next five years." The task force was instructed to give special consideration to "influencing pricing and production decisions in exporting nations."

Their report was supposed to be completed by March 15, 1976. But the policymakers kept sending the drafts back for revision. A tentative report was submitted last July. But, according to a secret briefing paper prepared for President Carter, this was also returned "to answer major questions that had been omitted, and a new working outline was developed."

The report still hasn't been "finalized." The briefing paper blames the State Dept. for keeping "overly tight control of the study." The striped-pants set allegedly tried to manipulate the study "to rubber stamp (their) existing international energy initiatives."

This charge has irritated State Dept. officials, who hold the Treasury experts responsible for the delay. "They came up with questions, but they never had any answers," grumped one official.

The State Dept. wants to "lessen the impact" of future oil price increases, according to the briefing paper, by cutting back imports.

But the Treasury Dept. contends that "further arbitrary reductions in the amount of oil we import do not appear economically justified at present." This would merely result in a corresponding cutback in trade and an economic slowdown at home, the Treasury experts warn.

They, therefore, fear "such a policy could inflict higher costs upon the American consumer than the anticipated (oil) prices increases." Treasury officials would rather stockpile oil, as a hedge against an embargo, than reduce imports.

But in the backrooms, the experts are quarreling over who should pay for the strategic petroleum reserves. "If oil for storage is procured domestically," states another briefing paper, "it will have to be replaced with additional imports." Of course, this would raise prices, and the consumers would get stuck with the cost of building up the stockpile.

But if the government purchased oil for the stockpile directly from foreign sources at world market prices, the taxpayers would wind up paying the bill. Or the government could compel the refiners and importers to establish an industrial reserve. Then the oil companies would have to put up the money, although they likely would collect it back from their customers by raising prices.

The Treasury experts are also toying with the idea of buying "directly from foreign governments," according to the document. If this principle should be applied to all overseas oil purchases, it could save millions by eliminating the oil middlemen.

Rep. Phil Burton, D.-Calif., for example, is one of the most amiable men in Congress when his tooth isn't hurting. But the other morning, he set out for the dentist to get a painful chipped tooth repaired. The bitter cold weather didn't improve his disposition.

At a red light, Burton impatiently ordered his driver to make an illegal right turn. The infraction was witnessed by a policeman, who motioned the car to the curb. He approached the congressional vehicle, his face flushed with righteous indignation.

But he was unaware, poor fellow, that he was approaching a grizzly bear of a congressman with a sore tooth. Burton threw open the door, leaned out and began to berate the befuddled cop. "I want your badge number!" bellowed Burton.

The policeman was too startled to press charges, and the congressman completed the journey to the dentist. "It was just one of those crazy things," he told us afterward. Now that his tooth is feeling better, he's sorry about the incident.

Carter Capsules: Now that Jimmy Carter is installed in the White House, his campaign aides have loosened up on some of the campaign secrets. Here are a few stories they are now telling:

— Carter's irrepressible mother, "Miss Lillian," was so painfully frank that campaign aides quietly limited her appearances. They feared she would speak too honestly about some of the pro-segregationist views of the president's father. In New York, for example, her escorts went out of their way to keep her from the press.

— The campaigning Carter family became scattered so far and wide that they used the peripatetic advance men to pass messages to each other. Little Amy Carter, for example, got birthday greetings from her brother Chip, courtesy of an advance man who passed the message on to "Miss Lillian."

— One group that came out with high marks with the Carters was the Charlie Daniels Band. The Carters were so impressed with them that they may want the band to play a concert on the White House lawn.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A St. Louis County state senator has offered a proposal permitting Missouri employes to legally refuse jobs to Vietnam War resisters who have received a presidential pardon.

But after introducing the bill on Thursday, Sen. A. Clifford Jones, R-St. Louis, admitted that it was probably unconstitutional and had no chance of passage.

Sprague reacts to PSC plan

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Hugh Sprague, Public Service Commission chairman, said Thursday that a plan suggested by Gov. Joseph Teasdale to transfer the staff of the PSC to the Public Counsel would set up a utility czar in Missouri.

Teasdale advanced the idea before he testified at a pubic PSC hearing on a $3.9 million emergency rate increase request for the St. Joseph Power & Light Co.

Sprague predicted that many PSC staff members would quit rather than joint the staff of the Public Counsel, thus leaving the office without the competent consumer- oriented professional staff Teasdale hoped to achieve.

Suit filed to stop air base move

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Jackson County counselor said Thursday he may file a suit in federal court to stop the Air Force from moving its personnel from Richards- Gebaur Air Force Base to Illinois.

Gas is cut off in industries

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — The St. Joseph Light and Power Co. notified officials at Northwest Missouri State University, St. Francis Hospital and several Maryville industries that their natural gas has been cut off.

Officials said Thursday the institutions have been told not to expect any gas in February. Spokesmen said it was forced to cut off the supplies because their own supply had been curtailed by Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Co.

The university, the hospital and the industries are all equipped to use alternate but more costly fuels.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Thomas M. Keyes of Kansas City was named state auditor Thursday by Gov. Joseph Teasdale, who called the certified public accountant "a 62-year-old mature, proven professional who's a Democrat."

'Roots'-most watched program

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Roots" is well on its way to becoming the most watched program in television history — and the most talked about.

Word of mouth has increased its audience every night since its premiere Sunday, when ABC estimated 75 million people tuned in. By its conclusion this Sunday, ABC expects it will pass "Gone With the Wind," the highest- rated TV show to date.

Fuel crisis brings emergency

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio, New York and New Jersey were under energy emergencies today as officials sought to conserve dwindling natural gas supplies. The fuel crisis in the Northeast threatened to add more than 250,000 new layoffs to the ranks of the estimated 400,000 already "energy unemployed." Meanwhile, the governors of Florida, Pennsylvania and Tennessee asked President Carter to declare their states disaster areas. And an Arctic cold front settling over the Midwest and East was expected to drop temperatures to below zero and possibly cause some cuts in natural gas supplies for residential users.

Carter may veto economy plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress tries to add too much to President Carter's $31.2 billion economic stimulation package, the President's advisers might recommend that he veto the package, an administration economist warns. The administration's three top economic officials, questioned by the House Budget Committee on Thursday, hedged on how firm the administration is on holding the program to $15.5 billion this year and $15.7 billion next year.

Quick action on energy policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite reservations by some key lawmakers, President Carter is getting fast congressional action on his emergency energy proposals. Some lawmakers want assurances that the legislation won't delay action on long-range plans to end price controls on natural gas. They contend decontrol is needed to stimulate industry efforts to look for new supplies. The House Commerce Committee scheduled a hearing today on Carter's emergency energy proposal and the Senate, which waived committee hearings, slated floor debate on the plan. The package could be ready for passage in both houses early next week.

Concern for jobless veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, who pardoned Vietnam draft evaders as his first act in office, now wants to give a break to the thousands of jobless Vietnam-era veterans. Carter's new labor secretary, F. Ray Marshall, announced a $1.3 billion program Thursday to find jobs for 200,-000 of the nation's 558,000 unemployed Vietnam-era veterans. The government hopes to create 145,000 public service jobs for veterans, and to persuade business and industry to hire 50,000 to 60,000 more.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Freddie Prinze, the 22-year-old star of the hit television series "Chico and the Man," was in critical condition today with a bullet wound in the head following an apparent suicide attempt, police said.

Lt. Dan Cook said Prinze had been despondent Thursday night and that several friends and his psychiatrist were in his apartment trying to cheer him up when the shot was fired.

"All of a sudden, he reached down into the sofa, pulled out an automatic pistol, and shot himself in the head," Cook said.

Cook said a note was found but he would not reveal the contents.

The shooting occurred about 3:30 a.m. in Prinze' suite at the plush Beverly Comstock Hotel in West Los Angeles. Prinze had been staying there since he and his wife, Katherine, filed for divorce last month. They were married in Las Vegas in October 1975.

James Komack, creator and executive producer of "Chico and the Man," said he had been with Prinze early Thursday evening in Komack's home. He said Prinze gave no hint of personal problems and said the actor didn't "leave here suicidal."

Paramedics who took the actor to the hospital said his condition was so unstable it was a half-hour before 'hey were able to move him.

Prinze, a Puerto Rican who traded heavily on his ethnic background in his routines, grew up in New York City. His break came three years ago when he appeared on the "Tonight Show" and was spotted by Komack.

In the half-hour NBC situation comedy, Prinze played the Mexican-American employe of a garage in an East Los Angeles barrio, or Mexican neighborhood, and traded jokes with his crusty, white boss, played by Jack Albertson.

When the show first began, some Mexican-Americans protested that it portrayed them in a bad light.

But Prinze disagreed, arguing that, "the Chicanos are a warm people. They're dynamite friends. I don't think it's the majority making the fuss. It's a few radicals. I was a radical when I was 16. Then I realized it's a one-way street."

THE BIBLE

No. 276. The Writing on the Wall

King Belshazzar made a great feast to a thousand of his lords, and commanded that his guests drink from the golden and silver vessels taken from the temple of Jerusalem. As they drank, they praised false gods. "In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace; and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote." (Daniel 5:5)

The terrified king called for someone to interpret the meaning of this mysterious handwriting. However, in all the kingdom, only Daniel was able to inform the king of its meaning.

"This is the interpretation of the thing: Mene; God hath numbered thy kingdom and finished it. Tekel; Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting. Peres; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the Medes and Persians. . . . In that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain." (Daniel 5:26-30)

New liquor rule pleases teetotalers

NEW YORK (AP) — The new social fare at the White House rules out hard liquor and that pleases anti-whisky forces, including a lot of Jimmy Carter's fellow Southern Baptists. But some of them frown at his occasionally sipping a cocktail.

There's no "foot-stomping campaign" about it, but there is some questioning, generally muted, says Theo Sommerkamp of Columbus, Ohio, editor of the Ohio Baptist Messenger.

At the same time, the newly eununciated policy of only wine and no hard drinks at White House dinners, receptions and other social functions during the Carter tenure reassured many Southern Baptists and other evangelicals.

The country's best-known Southern Baptist, evangelist Billy Graham, says he's glad to note Carter's decision that "no hard drinks will be served at the White House during his administration."

While favoring that, Graham disputed a recent news report saying he feels it's all right for Carter to drink an occasional highball. The story made erroneous deductions, a spokesman for Graham said.

Graham added in a statement that "because of the devastating problem that alcohol has become in America, it is better for Christians to be teetotalers except for medicinal purposes."

10-day revival planned

A 10-day series of revival services will begin Saturday night at Christ Gospel Church, 717 Kendall St., the Rev. James Beaird, pastor, has announced.

The services will begin at 7:30 each evening, and will feature Bible preaching and teaching by Evangelist Jacob Wommer of Jeffersonville, Ind., along with singing nightly.

Revival to open Sunday

Revival services will begin Sunday at the Pentiecostal Holiness Church, 328 W. North St., according to the Rev. Freeman Parker, pastor, who said the services will begin at 6 o'clock Sunday night and 7 o'clock on week nights.

The speaker will be the Rev. Bob Camp, an evangelist from Texas.

Dexter church to host singing

DEXTER — Second General Baptist Church, located at the corner of St. Francis and Locust streets, will host an afternoon singing program from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday , the Rev. Lester Dale, pastor, has announced.

Featured singers will be The Calvarymen Quartet" of Marion, Ill., and The Gospel Tones Quartet from the Idalia Community.

Singers to visit Malden church

MALDEN — Jack Campbell and the Ambassadors of Kennett will be guest singers Sunday during the 11 a.m. worship service at Beechwell General Baptist Church.

A film, titled "So Long Joy", will be shown at the Sunday evening worship service, which will begin at 7 p.m.

Gospel singing slated Feb. 5

BERTRAND -- A gospel singing program featuring the Hamilton Brothers Quartet from Paducah, Ky., will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 5 in First Missionary Baptist Church, the Rev. Lee Fansler, pastor, has announced.

Dexter doctor to go into ministry

DEXTER — One of Dexter's highly regarded physicians will be leaving Feb. 1 to begin a new life in West Monroe, La., a city of around 100,000 persons.

Dr. John P. Morgan, who was in family practice and obstetrics for five years in Dexter, will give up that practice and devote his full time to ministery and education in the Church of Christ.

"In my practice of medicine, I didn't have the time to devote to Christ that I wanted to. And I had a tendency, I'm afraid, to be too materialistic.

"It wasn't an easy choice to change my life this way, but I've felt better since I decided to do this and I've been happier than I have been for several years."

In his new position with the White Ferry Road Church of Christ in West Monroe, Morgan will be involved in three areas. He will assist in developing and setting up a curriculum for teaching counseling to preaching students enrolled at the White Ferry Road School for Biblical Studies.

He also will assist the congregation there in establishing a counseling center at the church to serve the congregation and the community of West Monroe. In addition, he will accept engagements to present anti. abortion programs.

Morgan has presented a number of such programs in this area. He has an engagement Feb. 28 in Tyler, Tex., to present an anti abortion program. "I guess I have probably four to six invitations for the rest of the year in several different states--Illinois, Texas.

"I also am going to be working on a masters degree in religion at the American Bible College in West Monroe, and I'll have a chance to preach as much as I can."

Although he will be giving up his practice, he feels he certainly will have numerous chances to use his medical training in his new vocation. He went on to say that in his practice here he frequently met people who were suffering from problems that were more "spiritual" than "medical," in nature.

You have had some "successes" with Christian counseling that have led you to believe you can do some real good in this area?

"Well, yes, I really have," Dr. Morgan responded quietly.

"The more I've studied the Bible over the past several years, the deeper I've gotten into it, I've become more firmly committed to the idea that Jesus Christ is Lord--that he is not only my Savior, but that he is my Lord. And I want to spend all of my time working for Him."

"I don't mean to leave the impression that you have to leave whatever profession that you're in, but if you believe that the Bible is the inspired work of God, that being a Christian involves tocal commitment of your life to Christ, then you do have to put Jesus first in your life, whatever that means to you.

"It got to the point this wasn't something I felt like I had to do. It was something I wanted to do."

Morgan said that as a premed student at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth and later as a medical student at the Kirksville College of Osteopathic Medicine, he had planned on spending his best working years in medicine and "retiring as a physician at a good old age, with financial security and all of that."

"Well, those things are not important to me any more. At one time they were."

"I'll get a salary (in his new work) but it won't be near what I made as a physician. It won't be the kind of salary where you can have a large retirement fund, extensive holdings, all of that."

Morgan said the School of Biblical Studies which trains preachers does not currently have an in-training counseling program for young preachers. Morgan will be responsible for working with the staff in developing a curriculum to train those students to do Christian counseling.

"This is an area that is exciting and I'm anxious to get started on. There are a number of books, particularly in the area of reality therapy which will be used as source books, but it's going to be in the main a Bible-oriented program.

Morgan believes deeply in the Bible as the inspired word of God, "perfectly able to teach us the things necessary for a happy, productive life."

In addition, Morgan proved to himself from his study over the past several years that abortion is "murder." When Morgan speaks out on abortion, he uses well-documented slide materials prepared by a Cincinnati couple active in Pro-Life movement—Dr. and Mrs. James Wilke.

Morgan, himself, an active opponent of abortion said, "I've delivered 875 babies. I guess that's the part of medicine I'll miss the most. I loved that. I consider one of the real privileges of practicing medicine was to be able to deliver those babies."

NEW YORK (AP) — The miniskirt. You remember, that merest suggestion of a coverup, that excuse for a dress that glorified ankle, calf, knee, thigh — and frequently a bit more.

It was the stuff of which bad jokes were made. It made an industry of pantyhose and an historical marker of the office drinking fountain.

Well, after seven years of banishment by the fashion arbiters, the miniskirt is making a comback. Not too fast. Not too short. Not for everyday. Not for everybody.

It remains to be seen whether women will approve. There surely won't be a mini revolution and, fashion experts say, few women would shuck their wardrobe of longer, comfortable skirts for frivolous frocks.

THE 200,000th DEGREE

"It took us from our first graduating class in 1861 to 1965 to award our first 100,000 degrees," said John W. Oswald, university president.

Vatican declaration casts gloom on women's ordination

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Roman Catholic Church will not ordain women as priests no matter what other churches do, the Vatican said today, because Jesus Christ was a man and his representatives on earth must bear a "natural resemblance."

A 6,000-word declaration issued by the Vatican's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith on the orders of Pope Paul VI said the church based its decision on the attitude of Christ, who chose only males for his apostles, and that of the disciples, who chose only men as priests.

Informed sources said earlier this week that the document could open the way for women to become deacons as they were in the early days of Christianity. But an official commentary released with the declaration said the Congregation had postponed a decision on women deacons.

Priesthood should not be discussed as a matter of social advancement or equality between sexes, the document said, adding: "It should not be forgotten that priesthood is not part of the rights of a person but depends on the ... mystery of Christ and the Church."

There will be no newsletter sent from Heritage House in February or until such a time when we can show a continued schedule of our regular activities.

The February menus may be picked up at the Center for those who need them as the meals are being served daily.

Activities must be curtailed due to the fuel shortage so that no afternoon or evening meeting will be held. On Tuesdays and Fridays the card players may use a section of the dinning room from 8 a.m. to noon as that is the only heated area.

Starting Tuesday, Ed. Todd will be available each Tuesday and Wednesday from 9 a.m. to noon to offer his services as tax consultant for those 65 years of age or older who wish to file for their Missouri income tax refund.

Reservations for the Ice Show in St. Louis March 26 are still available. The young Olympic star, Dorothy Hamill is to be featured. Your deposit should accompany your name when reservations are made.

An attempt will be made, through the news media, to keep you informed of the Heritage House Happenings. You may call Heritage House 471-8059 from 8 a.m. until 2 p.m. for additional information until the fuel shortage is over and we can resume our regular schedule.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have been married 18 years and there's one thing about George that bugs me.

We attend many conventions because of his business. It seems whenever he is introduced to a good-looking woman, he can't just say, "Pleased to meet you." He has to put his arm around her shoulder and rub her back or give her a hug.

I feel all eyes are on me to see how I'm taking it. Of course I'm embarrassed but I try not to show it. I've told George how I feel about his tasteless behavior but he insists he's just being friendly -- that the women really like it and it does no harm.

I say he should cool it before some gal's husband punches him out. Am I wrong?– Huggy Bear's Wife

Dear Wife: No, but you'll never convince George, so stop trying. One of these days he's going to massage the wrong lady and SHE'LL punch him out. Then maybe he'll cool it.

Dear Ann Landers: I became depressed when I read that letter in your column from the mother who said, "My son-in-law is a bum and my daughter would be a lot better off without him."

Nine out of ten times the daughter knows her husband isn't what she thought he was when she married him, but she just doesn't see divorce as the answer.

I still love my husband even though he can't seem to get it all together. I'd rather work (this is what bugs my mother) and let my guy try to make a go of something he enjoys doing rather than have him be miserable in a higher-paying job just so it will look good to outsiders.

Please let me use your column to say to my mother, "I love you, Mom, in spite of your faults. I hope you will let me love him in spite of HIS faults – and stay out of our marriage."

Thank you, Ann, for giving me the opportunity to speak my mind. – Doing It My Way

Dear D.I.M.W.: I hope your mother (and other mothers who identify) will get your poignant message. But do try to put yourself in her place. Most daughters are unable to appreciate their mothers until they have daughters of their own. Then suddenly so many things become clear.

Dear Ann: I was invited to a dinner party last evening. I always leave a phone number with my children so they can reach me in case of an emergency.

Between the soup and the salad I received a call (big emergency – the kids were fighting over which channel to watch on the color TV). Suddenly I didn't know what to do with my dinner napkin. It was soiled and I didn't want to leave it on the table -- so I took it with me. I had a feeling this wasn't right.

What SHOULD a person do with a soiled dinner napkin if he or she must leave the table? Also, is it proper to fold the napkin when the meal is over? Some did, others didn't.

Bluff blasts Bulldogs, Jays trip Tigers

Daily Standard Sportswriter

It may have been 49 months and 13 meetings since their last victory over the Sikeston Bulldogs, but coach Jim King's Poplar Bluff Mule's looked Thursday night like they can now do it anytime they want as they waltzed to an 82-56 demi-final round decision over the Dogs. The easy win landed the Mules a berth in the finals tonight against the Charleston Bluejays at 8 p.m.

It was not a good night for Bulldogs --- fans, players or coaches. The fired up Mules out-hustled, out-shot, out-rebounded and outplayed Sikeston enroute to their 12th win in 15 starts. Larry Jackson's layup for the first score of the game gave the Dogs their only lead. The rest of the game belonged to the determined Mules and their large supporting crowd.

OUTCLASSED EARLY

Many of the crowd came to see 6-9 transfer student Lex Drum in his second outing for the high-flying Mules, but most came smelling blood ... Bulldog blood, and they got what they came for. The Mules exploited the Bulldog defense for easy inside buckets and forced turnovers by Sikeston. Only numerous turnovers by the overeager Mules themselves kept the score close.

Drum was brilliant in the first half, nailing seven of eight shots, scoring 15 points and holding Paul Gilbow scoreless in the Poplar Bluff man-to-man defense. Gilbow, who had had his finest varsity game in his career on Tuesday, had his worst against the Mules. Although the 6-6 senior was Sikeston's leading rebounder, he managed only one point before fouling out four minutes from the game's end.

HINTON FLOWERS

Drum's presence inside freed 6-5 senior Dale Hinton to roam the court, rather than his previous responsibility of hanging close to the goal. Hinton ran up 15 points in the first half, finished with 22 and led all rebounders by grabbing 14. Poplar Bluff outrebounded Sikeston 46-39, only the second time all year that Sikeston came off with fewer missed shots.

Hinton, known more for his offensive contributions in the form of points scored and his rebounding, turned passer on this occasion. He garnered six assists, second to Denis Duncan's seven, and made several steals.

By contrast, the Bulldog offense continued to look more to individual and one-on-one moves by its members and the whole team only came up with ten assists. Very few of the Dogs were willing to give themselves up for the team and the visitors paid for it.

MULE DOMINATION

With 30 seconds left in the first half a pair of free throws by Sikeston's leading scorer, Alonzo Harris, pulled the Dogs within five at 37-32. From that point, through the last half-minute of the first half, and until coach King mercifully emptied his bench with two minutes to go, Poplar Bluff outscored Sikeston 44-19. Never were the Dogs even a threat to the Mules, who totally outclassed them on what was a dark night for coach Bud Spears and his underlings.

As if they didn't have enough troubles, a reserve named Phil Coats came off the PB bench to burn them for eight points and several key plays, all in the second half. Coats' performance made the Mule offense a fearsome thing.

The Cape Central Tigers had the best shot at beating the Charleston Bluejays of any team since Kelly, but let the opportunity slide through their fingers in a 57-49 defeat. A second quarter which saw Charleston outscore the Tigers 23-14 sealed Central's doom, but they did have opportunities late in the game.

The much smaller Cape team played Charleston strong on the boards, blocking out well enough to grab 30 of the 63 rebounds in the game. Blake Miller, who scored 16 points for Cape, led all scorers. Lacy Bernard scored all eight first quarter points for the losers and finished with 15.

FINALS MATCHUP

Charleston takes on the improved Mules in tonight's championship tilt at 8 o'clock. Poplar Bluff has beaten its last three opponents by an average of 37 points. The Jays are unbeaten.

The much-improved Tigers will try to wrest the third-place trophy from Sikeston at 6:30.

Mike Shannon to visit Sikeston next Wednesday

Former St. Louis Cardinal player Mike Shannon-- currently a broadcaster with the team-- will visit Sikeston next Wednesday, local beer distributor Bob Ralph said yesterday.

Shannon, who will be the third man on the Cardinal broadcasts this season along with Jack Buck and Bob Starr, will be in town representing the Cardinals and Anheuser-Busch. He is involved in promotional work for the team and the brewery this year.

Ralph, the Anheuser-Busch distributor in Sikeston, said that Shannon would be visiting various businesses in Sikeston beginning at 10:00 a.m. Wednesday and will be here throughout the day.

Shannon broke in with the Redbirds as an outfielder in 1962. He made the transition to third base in 1967 after Charley Smith was traded -- a move that proved to be a key to the Cardinals' pennant-winning teams in '67 and '68. A rare kidney disease contributed to his retirement in 1970.

The first strike in America took place in New York City in 1741. It was a bakers' strike protesting municipal regulation of the price of bread.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bjorn Borg strode into the interview area of the Spectrum. His long, blonde hair dripped with sweat. He wore a coonskin coat. In the crook of his arm he cradled eight tennis racquets strung to an unbelieveable 80-pound tension.

His strong Viking face was a frozen mask. Who could have guessed that this 20-year-old phenom of the burgeoning world of tournament tennis had just been wiped out in a second-round match of the U.S. Pro Indoor Championships?

Win or lose, Borg always has managed to retain an icy, unflappable reserve. On this occasion, there was a more understandable balm.

The ink was hardly dry on the $100,000 check he had picked up three days earlier for beating Jimmy Connors in the televised Grand Slam of Tennis final at Boca Raton, Fla. Outside in the hall, a man was waiting to offer him $1.5 million to sign a contract with the Cleveland Nets of World Team Tennis.

In the wings were two of Borg's chief rivals for world honors—Connors, the game's "hit man," a court assassin on the loose, and Ilie Nastase, the mad Romanian given to crazed outbursts which sadly blunt one of the game's greatest talents.

Connors got a reported $750,000 for signing with Lamar Hunt's World Championship of Tennis this season. He is guaranteed $500,000 for a challenge match against Nastase, who gets $100,000, in Puerto Rico March 5, and he meets Nastase in a $100,000-winner-take-all Challenge Cup final April 10 at Las Vegas.

It is the new face of tennis-with money cascading like Niagara Falls into the pockets of the white pants brigade.

It is the "in" thing. Court complexes are mushrooming. More than 30 million now play it. And promoters with the aid of television are producing a new sports breed-young, rich, constantly on the move and thoroughly spoiled.

Everyone is asking: When will the bubble burst?

Tennis administrators are concerned. "There are 500 players seeking tournament spots—215 in our organization," says Bob Briner, executive director of the Association of Tennis Professionals. "We have 70 tournaments in the Grand Prix this year with $8 million in prize money. Our aim is to spread the talent as evenly as possible among the promoters."

So far, no one has seen the bottom of tennis' money well. Connors earned $687,335 in prize money last season. Nastase went over $500,000, Borg $400,000. Ten players made $200,000 or more, 16 were above $100,000 and 43 in excess of $50,000.

Mostly they are kids in short shorts, with bulging bankrolls, racquets strung like Stradivariuses, an endless stream of camp followers who all look like long-tressed Farah Fawcetts—and always handy, an airplane timetable.

"What a life," someone was heard to remark in the headquarters hotel restaurant here. "You travel the world at someone else's expense and you travel with a harem."

Scott-Miss. Jr. High first round ends

BENTON– Delta and Illmo-Scott City advanced to the semifinals in the seventh grade bracket and Illmo-Scott City moved to the eighth grade semifinals as well as the Scott-Mississippi Conference Junior High Basketball Tournament continued Thursday night at the Kelly High School gymnasium.

Delta registered a 30-29 upset over fourth-seeded Chaffee in the seventh grade tournament, with Scott City downing host Kelly 37-30 in the other seventh grade game. The Rams also upended Kelly in the eighth grade battle, this time 42-35.

In semifinal action tonight, Delta and Scott Central kick things off with a 5:30 seventh grade battle. The same two teams collide in an eighth grade meeting at 7:00 before East Prairie and Illmo-Scott City tangle at 8:30 in a seventh grade game. Semifinal action closes with a 9:30 battle between Illmo-Scott City and Oran.

LILBOURN — New Madrid's tenacious man-to-man defense minimized the height advantage held by the much taller Portageville Bulldogs Thursday night, enabling the Indians to grab a 69-54 decision and move into the finals of the New Madrid County Tournament tonight against Matthews.

Portageville's big men--6-6 Terry Durden and 6-3 Randy Ray--combined for only 17 points in the game, with Durden scoring 11 of them. The quicker Indians outplayed the Bulldogs in every quarter, including a 22-point outburst in the second period and a 20-point spurt in the fourth that put the game away.

Tony Gist was the big gun for the Indians, pouring in 32 points to lead the seven-player attack. Chris Tanner added 17.

Jon Samelton ripped the nets for 30 markers as the Panther jayvees, seeded third, completely dominated Matthews. Mike Williams added 14 points to the Lilbourn attack, while Harvey Dorsey and Donnie Rucker had 12 apiece.

The Panthers take on Portageville tonight in the junior varsity finals at 6:30 prior to the Matthews-New Madrid clash in the varsity bracket at 8:00.

Frosh lose to Meridian at Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The much-anticipated rematch between the freshman teams from Sikeston and Cape Central will not take place. The Meridian Bobcats of Mounds, Ill. made sure of that with a convincing 47-38 win over Sikeston in the semifinals of the Cape Girardeau Freshman Tournament Thursday night.

The Bulldog frosh lost the game in the first half as they dropped only their third game of the year and their first to a team other than Cape Central. The Bobcats raced away to a 17-8 first period lead over the second-seeded Bulldogs and were on top 22-12 at the half.

"They just didn't look like the team that I've seen play all year," said Coach Dan Wood, who filled in for Ford Morgan as frosh coach for the Meridian game only. Morgan was in Georgia at an educational conference.

Vinson scored 13 and Patterson 12 for Meridian, which will face undefeated Central at 3:00 Saturday afternoon at Central High School in the finals.

Mike Sales was once again high point man for Sikeston, this time putting in 12 markers. Sikeston will take on Notre Dame at 1:30 Saturday in the consolation contest.

An overwhelming loss like the one to Poplar Bluff is, of course, dissappointing, but it had to come sometime. The Mules were an impressive team while dealing out the punishment and Sikeston was less than impressive. But Sikeston had beaten Poplar Bluff some 13 times in a row and the combined factors added up to an embarrassing defeat.

Sikeston has been up and down this year, at most times down, and the play of the team has been puzzling to most people. The Bulldogs are not as talented as a year ago, but they have the talent to be a solid team. There is some intangible missing from the squad--a hardd thing to put your finger on. There are no bad attitudes apparent on the squad and no shirkers, but for some reason things haven't clicked yet. Hopefully, they will before regional time.

There is little sentiment and less common sense on the loose among the professional teams in Baltimore. Recently the Colts fired two coaches very instrumental in the resurgence of the Baltimore NFL franchise. Earlier GM Joe Thomas had been cast aside. These men, one the actual creator of the fearsome "Sack Pack" Colt defensive line, were very instrumental in the Colts' emergence as a playoff contender. Now they are gone.

The Baltimore Orioles baseball team ingloriously dumped perennial All-Star Mike Cuellar after a rotten '76 season, despite the many years of fine service. They are also subtly nudging thirdbaseman Brooks Robinson toward the door as his magnificent talents decline.

I guess if the players are going to milk the management for all the money they can get, management and team loyalty, etc., is going to go out the window.

Bad news for radio purists. Frog-throated Mike Shannon will be in the broadcast booth during the summer of 1977. However, this is good news for those who appreciate his friendly and breezy dialogue.

...great crowd at the wrestling match Wednesday night at the fieldhouse. About twice as many people saw the "match of the year," as made the long trip to Poplar Bluff for the basketball game the following night.

What is Sikeston's number one winter sport?

Alaska is two and a half times the size of Texas and nine times as large as all of New England.

Cards win overtime thriller

BLOOMFIELD-- The Advance Hornets and Woodland Cardinals seem to take delight in upsetting each other in the semifinal round of tournaments.

Woodland pulled off the latest surprise in the rivalry, grabbing a thrilling 60-58 decision over the Hornets in double overtime in last night's semifinals of the Stoddard County Tournament. Advance had knocked off the Cardinals in the semifinals of the Woodland Tournament early in the season.

The Woodland victory set up a meeting between the Cardinals and top-seeded Richland Saturday night at 8:30 in the tournament finals.

A spectacular performance by Advance forward Steve Vavak seemed was overshadowed by the last-minute heroics of Woodland's Mike Moyers. Moyers had only twelve points in the game, but two of the buckets came in overtime, including a tip-in of Derek Mondy's missed shot at the buzzer of the second overtime period that put Woodland in the finals.

But Vavak was the big story of the battle for the Hornets, who lost for only the fourth time this season. The 6-3 senior poured in 32 points in the game, including eight during a fourth quarter Advance comeback that brought them from six points behind with a little more than a minute left to a tie score. In fact, Advance had a chance to win in regulation time, but Vavak's 25-footer at the buzzer rimmed the hoop twice before spinning out.

"I guess we started our delay a little too early," said Woodland coach Kevin Arand about his team's collapse in the final period of regulation play. "We wanted them to come out in their trap so that we might get someone open underneath, but they had a different trap than we expected."

The Vavak-led spurt knotted the score at 52-all and sent the contest into the first overtime frame, which saw both teams score four points. It was Vavak's field goal late in that three-minute period that forced another overtime and kept the big crowd at the Bloomfield gym on the edge of their seats.

As in the first overtime, both teams played very cautiously in the second extra period. Sophomore guard Dennis Wheatley of Advance sank both ends of a pressure-packed one-and-bonus free-throw situation with 12 seconds to go to knot the score again at 58-all and make the possibility of yet a third overtime seem likely, but Mondy's shot and Moyers' tip-in at the buzzer put the Cardinals in the finals.

It had been a see-saw battle all the way, with both teams holding fourth-quarter leads. Hornet center Mark Robins battled the 6-6 Moyers and 6-4 Jeff Wyatt inside to collect 12 points, but Woodland's big men got the better of the duel. Moyers and Wyatt combined for 26 points, with guard Mondy leading the Cardinal attack with 16. Mondy had missed most of Woodland's earlier loss to Advance with a sprained ankle.

It was the second heartbreaking loss of the night for the Hornets, who also lost in the earlier junior varsity game 49-48 to Bell City.

Advance staged another last-minute comeback in that game, making up six points in the last minute but falling one short at the end. Ellis Jackson scored 14 to lead the second-seeded Cubs, with Steve Austin adding 13 and William Henry throwing in 11. Parks Long's 17 points led the Hornets, who had upset Richland Tuesday night. Jeff Boner added 14.

Advance will meet Bloomfield tonight at 7:00 in the junior varsity consolation game, with the Advance squaring off against Puxico in the varsity third-place match at 8:30. In Saturday night's finals, Puxico and Bell City meet in the jayvee finals at 7:00. Then Woodland will try to become only the second team this season to knock off Richland as they take on the Rebels at 8:30.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — "The important thing is to keep from watching all the skating that's going on," Wayne Stephenson said. "If you take your eyes off the puck, you're mesmerized."

Stephenson, a Philadelphia Flyers goaltender, stuck to that task for 60 minutes Thursday night and pinned a 2-0 defeat on his former teammates, the St. Louis Blues, in the National Hockey League.

While Flyers Coach Fred Shero thought his team was superior to the margin of the score, Stephenson was more charitable.

"Three different guys asked me about different shots that might have gone in the net," he mused. "I'd say they had two good chances a period. In a game like that, all the shots they make are big."

Philadelphia, while recapturing first place in the NHL's Patrick Division, capitalized on a favorable bounce of the puck to score the only goal it needed.

Each team managed only five shots on goal during a scoreless second period, then the Flyers weathered a St. Louis power play durin the final 20 minutes and added a closing insurance goal on Bill Barber's shot into a net vacated by Ed Johnston.

"It was a close-checking game," maintained Blues Coach Emile Francis, whose team finished with 24 shots on toal against Stephenson to the Fyers' 29.

"The best chance we had was when Chuck Lefley missed the net in the third period," Francis contended. "Other than that, the big opportunity was Bob MacMillan's shot from the slot in the second period."

Shero, unimpressed by St. Louis after watching Philadelphia take a two-point lead over the runnerup New York Islanders in the Patrick Division, criticized the Blues' lack of offensive spark.

"When you're in your own building you've got to be more aggressive," he declared. "We dominated them. The score was no indication of the game."

Stephenson's second shutout of the season avenged a 7-2 loss he suffered 13 months earlier during his last game against the Blues in the Arena.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — A former dean of women at both Missouri Southern College in Joplin and Southwest Missouri State University in Springfield has joined the student personnel services staff at Southeast Missouri State University.

Yvonne A. Wilson, a candidate for a doctorate in higher education with a concentration in student personnel administration at University of Arkansas, became associate dean of students at Southeast Missouri State in mid-January. She fills the position left vacant by the retirement in October of Mary Helen Flentge, who was a member of the university staff for 18 years.

A 1953 graduate of Arkansas College in Batesville, where she majored in history and social science and minored in speech, Miss Wilson began her career in education in 1953 in Blytheville, Ark. She taught sixth grade there for three years and was on the junior high faculty for one year before returning to her alma mater in 1957 as director of admissions.

She remained at Arkansas College until 1964 when she began work on a master's degree at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. She received the degree a year later and was employed at Kansas State Teachers College in Emporia as assistant dean of women.

In 1968, Miss Wilson became the first dean of women at Missouri Southern, and in 1971, she was appointed dean of women at Southwest Missouri State. She remained in Springfield until August 1975 when she returned to the University of Arkansas to work on a doctor's degree.

She expects to complete requirements for the degree in May.

At one time or another during her career in higher education, Miss Wilson has been responsible for a freshman orientation program, women's athletics, residence hall staffing and supervision, and student recruiting.

Proposed new high school funding to bring joint session

MALDEN — Feb. 7 has been chosen for a joint Malden City Council-Malden School Board meeting to discuss the chances of securing city funds for building a new high school building.

Jim Darnell, who asked the council for more than $800,000 at its Jan. 10 meeting, appeared at Monday night's meeting to see if aldermen would agree to meet with the school board. The council decided to meet with the board at 7 p.m. at the high school cafeteria.

Darnell, speaking on behalf of the board, said the board wants aldermen to tour the highschool building, which it (the school board) believes is in poor condition and in need of replacement.

At the Jan. 10 council meeting, Darnell and Gary Hogan asked aldermen that half of the city's revenue-sharing funds and half of its sales tax revenue be set aside for the next five years to help finance a new building. At that time, Mayor Sparrel Davis told Darnell and Hogan he wasn't sure of the legality of such action and that giving the school the money might place the city in a financial bind.

'Roots' author will speak at ASU

JONESBORO--Alex Haley, internationally known author, world traveler and lecturer and author of the current best seller, "Roots", will speak at 8 p.m. Feb. 9 in the Reng Center ballroom on the campus of Arkansas State University.

The lecture is sponsored by ASU's lecture-concert series and is free to the general public.

During the past eight years, Haley has been engaged in an intensive and challenging research project which has spanned three continents. He pursued a few slender clues of oral family history which he was repeatedly told him through his Tennessee boyhood by his maternal grandmother.

Finally, Haley tracked his maternal family back to a Mandingo youth, named Kunta Kinte, who was kidnapped into slavery from a small village in Gambia, West Africa. This enslaved youth, Haley's seventh-generation forefather, arrived by slave ship in Annapolis, Md., Sept. 29, 1767.

Haley's resulting book, titled "Roots", was published last August by Doubleday, and was subsequently published worldwide in 14 language translations. "Roots" was filmed into the longest television series yet made in the United States, and premiered Sunday on the ABC Television Network. The 12 - hour series is being shown over an eight-day period ending next Sunday.

Finishing high school at the age of 15, Haley attended college for two years before joining the Coast Guard in 1939. After 20 years' military service, Haley retired from the Coast Guard and entered his writing career.

He achieved free-lance sales to such magazines as Harper's The Atlantic Monthly and The New York Times Magazine. He has been an assignment writer for Reader's Digest, and for Playboy, where he initiated the Playboy Interviews feature.

One of his interviews for Playboy was with Malcolm X. Haley's first book was "The Autobiography of Malcolm X", which was published in 1965 in eight languages and sold more than five million copies. It was also selected among the 10 best American books of the 1960's decade.

Haley's appearance will coincide with Black History Week, sponsored by ASU's Black Students Association.

Free income tax help for retirees

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A 46-page 1977 Retirement Income Tax Guide, offered free as a public service by the American Association of Retired Persons and National Retired Teachers Association, provides helpful, easy-to-follow tips on preparing income tax returns, including up-to-date information on the provisions of the Tax Reform Act of 1976 and the new Form 1040.

In addition to a simple, line-by-line explanation of Form 1040, the guide offers practical advice on filing requirements; treatment of pension, Social Security and other retirement income; special deductions and exemptions for retirees; and record-keeping. The guide also advises when and where to get outside tax preparation help.

According to government surveys, nearly half of the millions of older Americans who file tax returns each year may be overpaying their income taxes. Methods of determining tax deductions and liabilities become far more complex when persons reach age 65.

For retirees who need tax assistance, the 10-million-member associations also sponsor a free tax counseling service for older taxpayers in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service. More than 9,000 retirees, specially trained by IRS, will serve as volunteer tax aide counselors in 1,500 communities throughout the nation between now and April 15.

For the location of the nearest tax-aide program, write: Tax-Aide, c-o AARP-NRTA, Dept PR, 1909 K St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20049.

Mammoth Juanita is back in business with few changes

PORT COSTA, Calif. (AP) — Mammoth Juanita Musson, with her muu-muu, her menagerie and a chest big enough, she says, to snuff out a forest fire, is back in the restaurant business.

Twice burned out of previous locations in the past quarter-century, the coarse-tongued "gallez" operator is at work again with as few changes as possible from her other restaurants.

"I wear a size 48 double-D bra with enough held over to smother a forest fire," she says loudly. "I'm 53 and I tip the scales at 250 pounds — and you can ask me anything you want, honey, 'cause I believe in telling it like it is.

"A lot of people love me and a lot of people hate me," she adds. "A lot of people think I'm loud and vulgar and obscene. Well I'll tell you, honey, maybe I am. Just maybe I am."

Juanita is quick to add, though, "I ain't never turned away an animal that didn't have a home and I ain't never turned away a man who was hungry."

It's been 23 years since she opened her first galley on the Sausalito waterfront. Since then she has moved seven times and won increasing fame as a good cook with a blistering temper and tongue.

When Juanita's Galley in Fetter's Hot Springs burned down in March 1975, one observer said it was "comparable to what might have occurred had there been an explosion aboard Noah's Ark."

Firemen arrived to find chickens, pigs, goats, cats and peacocks amid a clamor of squeaks, grunts, quacks and screeches. And Juanita in a red muu-mus trapped on the second floor.

Juanita attributes her fondness for animals to the fact she was never allowed to have any pets when she was a child. She treats her broad range of roosters, pigeons, dogs and monkeys as children.

Any day of the year visitors are likely to find Juanita in her galley, in the kitchen, behind the cash register, feeding stray animals or mingling with the customers.

She defends her reputation as a fiery-tongued overseer of her empire, but says she can't help what she is.

J. W. Marshall has opened a new restaurant in the building formerly occupied as a restaurant by Mr. Mangrum. He has refitted the building and has the place looking very inviting.

Guy Young started work Tuesday on the erection of a new five-room bungalow in the south part of town. When the building is completed, Mr. Young will move to Sikeston from his present home in Bertrand. The Sikeston Concrete, Tile and Construction Co., is doing the construction work on this new building.

Attention is called to Dr. R. E. Wiley, who came to Sikeston a few weeeks ago from Decatur, Ill., and has office rooms in the McCoy-Tanner building. He has his residence at the home of Mrs. Schroff on North New Madrid street.

C. E. Mitchell, closed a deal the latter part of last week, where by the lot just south of the building owned and occupied by the C.F. Bruton Real Estate and Investment Co., was transferred to this company. The lot was owned by Mr. Mitchell and his brothers, B. W. Mitchell of Lake Charles, La., and O. H. Mitchell of Phoenix, Ariz., and fronts 25 feet on North New Madrid street. We understand that Messrs. Dunaway and Bruton of the real estate and investment company contemplate enlarging their building to cover this additional lot, also adding another story to their present building.

Judge J. A. Finch of Fornfelt and Thos. Gallivan of New Madrid have formed a law partnership, and will have their office at New Madrid.

But with Hustler magazine the defendant — along with its publisher, his wife, his brother and the production manager, the seven men and five women in the jury have been ordered to study 11 issues from cover to cover.

All four defendants are charged with pandering obscenity and engaging in organized crime. Publisher Larry Flynt's wife Althea and brother James are charged as associates in publishing the magazine. Al Van Schaik is the production manager.

Testimony began this week after two weeks of jury selection.

Prosecutors say conviction would ban the sale of Hustler in Hamilton County and give authorities around the country a weapon against pornography. The defendants, who face maximum jail sentences of 25 years each if convicted, say what's really on trial is freedom of the press.

In opening remarks, attorneys for both sides warned jurors that they might be shocked by what they saw in the magazine, which has a monthly circulation of 1,448,000 and reportedly earned a multimillion-dollar profit last year for its night club-owning publisher.

Herald Fahringer, attorney for the 33-year-old Flynt, said that although jurors might find Hustler "raunchy, disrespectful, disagreeable and in very bad taste," that does not make it obscene.

But Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. pointed out that besides female nudity, there were articles on bestiality, sadism, bondage and oral sex. Leis, who has a reputation for prosecuting pornography cases, said such articles violated community standards.

The magazine is published in Columbus, and the defendants had appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court, claiming that since none of the defendants lives or works in Cincinnati, the court here has no jurisdiction and the trial should be stopped.

But the higher court ruled unanimously Wednesday that the trial should go on and that the question of jurisdiction can be brought in an appeal if Flynt and his associates are found guilty.

County landfill near Campbell receives county court approval

KENNETT — There may soon be a place to legally dump trash in Dunklin County.

Harold and Dennis Pleasant, owners and operators of the firm, based their bid on the size of loads taken to the landfill, which has been closed since October 1976. That was when Charles Shown of Kennett gave up operation of the landfill, saying it wasn't financially worth the effort to keep the landfill open.

Since then, county trash haulers have been forced to take their cargoes to neighboring counties. However, most out-of-county dumping sites have recently been closed to Dunklin County haulers.

County Clerk Billy Horner was quoted as saying no contract was awarded Pleasant's Excavating because the firm has not yet submitted a performance bond. As soon as a bond is submitted and approved by the court, a contract will be awarded. Then, he said, the county landfill should be reopened.

The Pleasant's bid is computed this way: Passenger cars and station, $1; pickup truck, $2; pickup truck with rack, $3; pickup truck with larger rack, $4; one-ton truck, $6; 1 1/2- ton truck, $7.50; single axle truck larger than 1 1/2 tons, $10; compactor truck (by-yard rate), $1; other vehicles not already described, $7.50.

By The Associated Press

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1871, Paris surrendered to Germany in the Franco-Prussian War.

On this date:

In 1807, Pall Mall in London became the first street in the world to be lighted by gas.

In 1962, an unmanned American spacecraft, Ranger 3, failed to make a hoped-for lunar landing, passing the moon at a distance of 22,000 miles.

Ten years ago: Peking and Moscow exchanged angry charges about an incident involving Chinese and Russian students in Moscow's Red Square.

Five years ago: In the Vietnam War, fighting broke out within 10 miles of Saigon. It was the closest to the South Vietnamese capital since the Tet offensive of 1968.

Thought for today: Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it. — King Solomon, about 973-933 B.C.

THE RYATTS by Jack Elrod

BEETLE BAILEY by Mort Walker

Incidental fees, room and board costs to be increased at SeMo U.

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Both incidental fees and room and board costs will go up slightly in each of the next two academic years if Southeast Missouri State University's Board of Regents accepts recommendations it received Thursday from President Robert Leestamper.

The board will act on the recommendations at its March 24 meeting.

The recommendations would increase incidental fees for full-time students who are Missouri residents by $10 per semester next fall and another $15 per semester in the fall of 1978. Out-of-state students would pay an additional $35 per semester next fall and $40 more in the fall of 1978. Charges for part-time students, summer sessions and workshop courses woul be proportionately raised.

Room and board costs would be a flat $480 per semester per student beginning next fall and would go to $495 in the fall of 1978.

Currently, Missouri residents pay incidental fees of $120 per semester, while out-of-state students pay $325 per semester. Room and board costs now vary from $450 to $475 per student per semester, depending upon the residence hall in which a student lives. Most pay the higher rate.

One reason for the increase in incidental fees, according to Leestamper, is that the formula of the Coordinating Board for Higher Education requires an institution to raise at least 25 per cent of its total budget from sources other than state appropriations. In addition, an institution's funding is reduced in proportion to the percentage of out-of-state students who are enrolled, he noted.

Even if the increases are approved, Leestamper said, Southeast Missouri State will remain less expensive to attend than Missouri's other regional universities. The president added that he is looking two years ahead because "the two-year pattern gives us a better opportunity to plan."

In his report to the regents Leestamper said that the dean of students, director of housing and university business office staff have recommended a single rate for all residence halls since essentially the same services are provided students in each hall.

The Southeast Missouri State president said, however, that an additional fee may be recommended for residence hall students who keep automobiles on campus. He noted that if such a plan is adopted, students who wish to avoid the fee would be assigned parking spaces in a sparsely used lot on the north campus rather than in prime areas.

Again this semester, the residence halls at the university are more than 100 per cent occupied, Housing Director Shelton "Butch" Smith told the regents.

Those reserved for men are up overall by 10 residents over 100 per cent occupancy, Smith said, and those for women are up overall by one resident. He noted that 55 coeds are living in the old St. Francis Hospital building which is now called University Hall.

The regents authorized purchase of the building for $150,000 at their December meeting, and university officials rushed to ready a portion of the structure for use during the spring term. As a result, Smith said, the university this semester is not housing any students in motels or apartment houses, as it did during the fall term.

By next fall it is planned that 200 to 225 students can be accommodated in University Hall, and most likely these will be women, Smith said. He said applications for housing are running about 100 ahead of this time a year ago.

The only university housing facility with a substnatial number of vancancies is the Fountain Plaza Apartments, which was leased last summer for use as married student housing. Of the 38 apartments in the complex, 11 are vacant. Twelve are occupied by married couples and 18 single women are living in the other units.

Smith said that next fall all of the units should be filled. More inquiries about married student housing are being received, he said, as the word gets out that Southeast Missouri State has this type of facility.

Registrar Alton Bray told the board that spring semester enrollment now stands at 7,476 with the number of underclassmen up by about 250 over last spring semester and the number of graduate students down by about 200. Many of the graduate students attend evening courses as commuters, and Bray said he felt the bad weather in January had adversely affected this enrollment.

Graduate enrollment will improve, he predicted, by Feb. 8, the date on which official enrollment reports must be calculated for budgetary purposes.

Through other reports Thursday, it was announced:

–That a Chicago consulting engineer and planning firm, De Leuw Cather Company, has been retained to make a comprehensive study of campus parking and will have a progress report ready in early March. Recommendations could be forthcoming at the March meeting of the regents or they may be delayed until May.

-- That the university is taking its case to the State Legislature for about $600,000 more for operations in fiscal 1978 than was recommended by both the coordinating board and Gov. Joseph Teasdale.

Southeast Missouri State will also seek additional funds for capital improvements from the Legislature and will especially press for about $700,000 needed to construct an addition to Serena Industrial and Technical Education Building.

This money was recommended for Southeast Missouri State with a high priority by the coordinating board, but was not included in Teasdale's proposed budget. Basically, Leestamper said, Missouri's new governor cut out all capital improvement funds in his budget except money for general repair and energy control systems.

The president said at this point the outlook for additional funds for capital improvements is "discouraging," but he indicated he is "optimistic about receiving a fair hearing by the Legislature on our request for capital improvement funds."

Leestamper said that if the university is successful in its bid for an additional $600,000 in operating funds, he will recommend that the personal services budget of the university be increased by 10 per cent over this year's amount. Eight per cent of this would be for improvement of salary ranges while 2 per cent would be for promotions, merit raises and fringe benefits.

On the other hand, the president said that if the university gets only what the governor recommended, he will recommend an overall increase of 7 per cent in the personal services budget. Five per cent would be for general salary range improvements.

"It should be noted," he said, "that whichever guidelines are followed, the application of percentage increases does not mean that each person will receive the same rate of increase. The additional funds will be allocated in such a manner as to adjust salary ranges so that they are in equitable relationship to regional and national salary ranges for the positions involved."

The regents approved a new summer school employment policy which phases out after 1978 the faculty's guaranteed summer employment program as well as the summer leave-with-pay program for faculty. In their place the plan provides for increased summer salaries for faculty members "hired according to the needs of the program offered" and promises "a new faculty development program which would have similar objectives to the summer leave-with-pay program but would have additional features."

About $200,000 would be earmarked annually for this, and Leestamper said additional funding for faculty development would be sought from the federal government and private foundations.

Also approved by the regents was a mainor modification in the College of Business' one-year secretarial certificate program and a statement that the university does not discriminate on the basis of sex. The board also gave its approval for Kent Library to become an official state publications depository.

The change in the secretarial program permits students to pursue a "clerical" option and recieve a certificate without completing courses in shorthand. This will better serve student interests as well as manpower needs, according to Dr. William Petrek, vice president for academic services. The change must be forwarded to the Coordinating Board for Higher Education.

The statement that Southeast Missouri State does not discriminate on the basis of sex was required to have board approval in order for the university to receive certain federal funds, including those for student aid.

By TIM WHITE
Missouri Press News

Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale in December called for the April 5 referendum, saying he would abide by "the will of the people." U. S. Sen. Thomas Eagleton, who has supported the dam, said he also favors the referendum and has urged the Army Corps of Engineers to stop awarding contracts on the project pending results of a referendum.

The question before House and Senate committees is how many people, if any, should vote in a referendum. The Senate bill sponsored by Sen. Joseph Frappier, R-Florissant, calls for a referendum in 13 counties in the Meramec basin, plus the city of St. Louis. The House bill sponsored by Rep. Wayne Goode, D-Normandy, calls for a statewide vote.

For the referendum to be on April 5, a bill should be passed and signed by Feb. 15, and no later than March 1, said Secretary of State James C. Kirkpatrick. Kirkpatrick said he does not know of another regular election this year, so a referendum would have to be a special election.

Frappier said the cost to the state of a special election for his regional referendum would be $307,000. A fiscal note in Goode's bill states the cost of a statewide special election would be $937,500.

In addition to passage by March 1, to be on the April 5 ballot a bill would have to be passed with an emergency clause putting it into effect immediately upon the governor's signature. The emergency clause would require a two-thirds vote of both houses.

Frappier said a referendum bill will require personal lobbying by Eagleton and Teasdale to pass in time to be on the April 5 ballot. Frappier said he has contacted both by phone, but only Teasdale has sent an aide to testify at committee hearings.

Goode said there is a "real possibility" of passing a bill for an April 5 vote unless opponents delay action on the bill. However, Goode said the bill would not be dead if the April 5 election is missed. "A special election would be cheaper than the dam," he said.

Sen. Franklin Payne, D-St. Louis, chairman of the Senate committee considering Frappier's bill said he would call a vote soon after the committee finishes hearing proponents' and opponents' testimony.

Rep. Charles Becker, D-Arnold, chairman of the House committee considering Goode's bill, said his committee also would hear testimony and vote as soon as possible.

Opposition to a referendum on the Meramec dam is coming mostly from Eastern Missouri business, labor and sportsman's groups who favor continuing construction of the dam.

Clarence C. Barksdale, chairman of the board of First National Bank in St. Louis and past president of the St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association, said the dam would be good for St. Louis because of the construction and other jobs it would provide for the area.

Barksdale said the Missouri Congressional delegation has supported the project constantly since 1965, spent $35 million on the project and is now "waffling." "They are afraid it will damage their integrity in the Congress. If they want to stop it they should change their minds, not blame it on their constituents."

Richard Mantia, executive secretary-treasurer for the St. Louis Building and Construction Trades Council, said the dam project would create 400 to 500 construction jobs and 5,000 permanent jobs in motels, restaurants and recreational facilities in the area. Mantia said the decision should be left up to the state's congressional delegation.

"We feel a referendum, especially a statewide referendum, would probably defeat the project and endanger other federal projects in the area."

Charles Leick, who ran against Ichord on the issue of the dam, said polls have shown that people statewide are opposed to the dam and that they should be allowed to express themselves before their money is spent on the project. Leick said water supply, flood control and employment the dam would bring have been overplayed, and that land speculators and commercial interests in the area would benefit most from the project.

Gas, power companies extend thanks to public

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark. — Arkansas- Missouri Power Co. and Associated Natural Gas Co. have extended what president Frank G. Smith called a "sincere thank you" to all their customers for what they did during the past several days in conserving natural gas and electricity.

Smith also reminded customers that much colder weather is apparently due this weekend, possibly around zero again, and that the voluntary reduction in the use of gas is still needed to help stretch the supplies of natural gas.

All natural gas customers should continue using the following steps to reduce gas usage.

1. Residential customers should set their natural gas furnace thermostat at 65 degrees during the daytime and at 60 degrees at night.

2. Commercial customers should reduce their natural gas furnace thermostat setting to 55 degrees at night, and should wait until late in the morning to raise it to 65 degrees;

3. Thermostat settings on natural gas water heaters should be as low as possible.

4. Use of hot water should be cut to an absolute minimum post- poning, if possible, all non- essential uses;

5. Unused rooms should be closed off and not neated.

6. All area schools with "firm" natural gas contracts are being urged to reduce thermostat settings.

UFO will be discussed Feb. 2 by physics head

Dr. Harley Rutledge, head of the physics department at Southeast Missouri University in Cape Girardeau, will present a lecture and slide show about unidentified flying objects at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Sikeston High School cafetorium.

The meeting, sponsored by the high school math club, will be open to the public.

Rutledge will also talk about a UFO sighting in Sikeston.

The word "avon" originally meant "river" or "stream" in Celtic. It is today the name of several rivers in England and Scotland, including the one which flows through Stratford, birthplace of William Shakespeare.

PRACTICAL QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT INSULATION

The Homefoamers™

GREEN CONST. CO.
111 Branum
Sikeston, Mo.
Call 471-5057

The Homefoamers
Scientific Applications, Inc. 1976

Q: How much money can I expect to save on heating bills if I insulate?
A: It depends on the construction type, the degree of window and door heat- loss, the insulating material and how thoroughly the job is done, although estimates range form 15 per cent to 50 per cent.

Q: What is the cost of insulating an average house?
A: Because of variations in the way houses are built, they must be priced individually. For that reason, Arctic Foam has trained estimators - consultants who can give you an exact cost and show you how to get the most for your money.

A: You might notie a slight change, but it will feel warmer than it actually is. Cold floors usually indicate (again) poor wall insulation, since cold air moves down the walls onto the floor. Cold air ducts or leaky baseboards might cause the flow of cold air.

Q: I want to buy new storm windows. What shall I look for in good quality windows?
A: Look at tight- fitting, high quality double or triple- glazed windows. Since aluminum conducts heat more than wood, wood frames are desirable. Inspect the weatherstripping, tightness of interlocking windows and thermobarriers. All of these added features aren't cheap, but could save almost 20 per cent of your home's heat loss.

Q: Should attic vents or fans be installed or sealed up in the winter?
A: No. Serious trouble can result if you do. Frost builds up in the attic, which can condense on the roof to create ice dams. The timbers can also deteriorate from dry rot.

Q: How can I be sure a good job will be done?
A: Harding Home Comfort, Inc., sends all of its foam applicator crews to school to learn proper, up-to-date techniques. The crew is also taught how to properly patch and clean up all of the small holes drilled in walls for application purposes.

Q: When was urea-formaldehyde foam insulation developed?
A: It was developed in Germany over two decades ago. Urea formaldehyde foam insulation technology was developed by Schaum Chemie, a German Company whose trademark is Isoschaum. In the last 10 years the produce has been liensed for use in the United States. Tests done on German houses foamed with the substance years ago indicate that the foam is still entirely stable, has not cracked or created voids, nor has it deviated from newly applied foam.

Q: Where should a moisture barrier be installed?
A: On the inside of the wall and the ceiling. In some cases where there is a moisture migration problem that can't be solved by normal methods, the ceiling moisture barrier is eliminated and extra ventilation is added.

Q: I am buying a home built by a housing developer. How can I be sure he is putting in enough insulation?
A: With the new Minnesota building codes, the contractor by law must meet these standards. Your local Building Codes Official is the enforement officer to protect your interest in this and all bulding standards.

SEE OUR NEXT AD FOR MORE QUESTIONS AND THE IMPORTANT ANSWERS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT INSULATION. IN NEXT FRIDAY'S PAPER.

Frozen water lines main topic at council

It was decided to try to thaw out as many lines as possible, but Mayor Glen Ayers warned "the more we try to do now the worse we're going to make it."

He pointed out that if lines are thawed out now, unless water is run through them they will burst, and if they are dug up now, they will freeze up even faster during the next hard freeze.

Alderman Sonny McRoy suggested that the only way to keep lines from freezing is to leave a flow of water running from the faucet.

It has to be a cooperative effort, he said.

He suggested that a plumber could be hired at $10 per hour to thaw out frozen pipes but it would be cheaper to rent the necessary equipment and let city employes do the work.

The council did not make a definite decision in that direction, but Ayers told members of the water committee to do all they can to solve the problem, as long as it is "within reason."

The mayor announced that officer Jerry Johnson was appointed chief of police Jan. 17.

Auxiliary officers also appointed on that day included Wayne R. Kem, Tommy Lee Hankins, Donald Ray Parks, Fredrick Leon Rose, Doyle T. Clark, Larry Walpole, Johnny Haws and Farrell Kelly, who was appointed captain of the auxiliary force. The duties of auxiliary officer will involve assisting the police force.

The council decided to put street lights at the corner of Willow and Locust streets, on Reed Street in the middle of the block and at the corner of Roosevelt and Miller.

It was also decided to look next week at a billing machine which has been used by the rural electric cooperative office.

In other action, the council promised Carl Knowles it would find out if part of Center Street has been vacated or not and issued him a building permit for two houses. The council members were of the opinion that stretch of road had been vacated in the 1930's but has not been able to find a record of it.

SeMo U. Board of Regents is scene of spirited contest

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Expiration of the terms of two Republican members of the bipartisan Board of Regents at Southeast Missouri State University reportedly has stirred a spirited contest for the posts.

The election of a Democratic governor, Joseph P. Teasdale, has brought on the flurry of activity. While the governor would be required to appoint Republicans to the vacancies, it is believed he would not rename the incumbents.

While it is not ruled out that Hecht and Tomlinson could be renamed to their positions, political observers consider it highly unlikely.

According to published reports; at least three names have been presented to Teasdale for his consideration. They are Sydney Pollack, associated with his father in Pollack Hide & Fur Co. and Pollack Steel Supply Co. in Cape Girardeau; James H. Estes, president of Saveway Oil Co., Cape Girardeau; and William W. Bess, Sikeston and Chaffee banker.

Pollack reportedly has the backing of a number of Democrats prominent in the party. He is considered to have stronger Republican ties than either of the other two men who have been proposed to the governor. Pollack is a brother-in-law of Hecht.

Estes has been identified with the Democratic party, and served as pilot for Teasdale when he was in this area during the campaign and hosted a cocktail party for former Gov. Warren E. Hearnes during his senatorial campaign. He is a twin brother of Jerry S. Estes, Democratic magistrate of Cape Girardeau County.

Bess has long been identified with Democratic Party politics in southeast Missouri. He is a close friend of State Sen. John Dennis of Sikeston, for many years sheriff of Scott County.

Bess is vice president of First National Bank of Sikeston and, with Sen. Dennis, has ownership of Bank of Chaffee.

A search through the Official Manual of Missouri shows that all of the Boards of Regents of the regional universities are equally divided in party membership, three Republicans and three Democrats on each.

It was not explained how those identified with the Democratic Party in the past could be named to fill Republican vacancies on the board, although one source said there could be a switch of party allegiance, noting that it has been done before.

There has been no indication when Teasdale will make appointments to the Board of Regents here or to the boards at the other universities.

Couch said one of the troubles the tavern has is that it draws a more youthful crowd than others in town.

Luber's attorney said his client has taken steps to solve the establishment's problems, including no longer allowing anyone under 21 in the building.

Dexter council takes steps in bringing in more industry

DEXTER— The Dexter City Council took another step putting the city closer to landing another industry here at a special meeting late Wednesday afternoon.

Also, during the 45-minute meeting, the council blasted the city's garbage collection contractor, looked at expanding the police department and set a price for the parking meters that used to be on the city's off-street parking lots.

But, the main purpose of the meeting was a formal first-step in preparing for a possible new industry in Dexter.

An official announcement and full details of the plant was expected today. Contacts have been mdade during the past several weeks between company officials, the Dexter Chamber of Commerce, city leaders and Charles Clodfelter of the Bootheel Economic Development Council.

The initial location for the firm will be in the large building now held by the Dexter Airport Board, just east of the East City Park on Highway 114. The building at one time housed Dexter Engineering Co. and lately had been used for storage.

The city has agreed to undertake a major renovation of the building, at a cost of some $10,000. The firm will rent the building from the city, on a revenue bonds agreement, similar to other industries in the city. The revenue bonds are paid out at no cost to the taxpayer, it was noted.

Clodfelter explained to the council that contacts have been made with the Florida firm since last November, and that the company is "highly recommended" by the State Commerce and Industrial Development Agency.

Clodfelter explained that the firm is presently producing to its full capacity at its Florida plant, and has orders already through the coming year.

The council unanimously agreed to give initial approval to up to $500,000 in revenue bonds, and agreed to work on a plan to renovate the building.

Mayor Willis Conner noted that the Airport Board had also met on the proposal, and had pledged full cooperation.

In other business, the council was critical of the garbage collection system.

The city hired a private contractor, Bob Woods, sometime ago, and since then there have been "several complaints," the council said.

Conner noted that several people have complained that Woods never picked up their garbage when the roads were bad, and that many of the alleys were never traveled by the garbage collectors.

Conner said the city supervisor of the program, Roy Jackson, has had to pick up much of the garbage in a city truck, and Jackson "wants to know what to tell Woods."

Ward Two Alderman Les Day said "I'd authorize Roy (Jackson) to tell him (Woods) to pick it up or turn in his keys."

The other council members agreed, pointing out that Woods had contracted to pick up the garbage, and, as Ward One Alderman Eldon Cooper said, "100 per cent effort should be made to pick it up."

The council passed a resolution telling Woods that the city "wants the trash 'picked up."

Thursday morning Woods told city officials that he had obtained another smaller truck and would step up efforts to stay on a trash collection schedule. Woods said in the future, when streets are snow-covered, he will inform the people about schedule changes, and would "get the garbage picked up."

The Council agreed to ask for $75 each for the 50 double-head parking meters taken from the off-street parking lots last week. Conner said the city had a chance to sell the meters to Chaffee.

The council, with Street Supt. Gene Hyuten discussed purchase of a spreader for use in snow removal and agreed to list specifications for two new large trucks needed this year by the streets crews.
